

Watergate 7 enter pleas of innocent

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., introduced a bill today to increase the amount of money a Social Security pensioner could make without losing any benefits.

Besides raising from $1,680 to $3,000 the maximum that could be earned from outside sources, Mansfield said the bill would also "reduce the amount by which a person would be penalized" for earning more than that.

"This is long overdue," said Aiken, 80, the senior GOP member in the Senate. "It's not right to keep people living at poverty levels or less just because they happen to be living on Social Security."

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and five other Democratic senators introduced a resolution aimed at keeping the administration from suggesting in checks to be mailed to 28 million pensioners Oct. 3 that President Nixon should get credit for a 20 per cent Social Security increase.

Church tried to get immediate consideration of his resolution today but Acting Senate Republican Leader William B. Saxton of Ohio objected, postponing any action indefinitely.

Beards, mustaches out for Jerome students

By CHARLOTTE BELL
Times-News writer

JEROME — Beards and mustaches are still "out" and clean shaven faces are "in" for Jerome schools.

In a special school board meeting Monday night, trustees agreed without formal action to back up a previous policy prohibiting students from wearing beards or mustaches and to support the administrative decisions on the matter.

Prompting the special school board meeting was an incident in the Jerome High School in which a student was given specific instructions to go home and shave off a mustache.

The student complied but the student's mother called the superintendent of schools and protested saying she did not think the school principal had any authority to tell her son what he could or could not do.

Most of the trustees of the district said they were under the impression the special board meeting had been called to discuss the matter with the parents of the student involved.

Chairman Gordon Hollifield said the meeting was called only to discuss the dress code as requested by Supt. John Campbell.

Campbell told the board he asked for the meeting to inform the board of the situation. He said 25 or 30 other students are perhaps involved in the controversy.

Chairman Hollifield agreed with the board's final decision but he questioned the fact in 1971 the board instigated the dress code which has now been almost eliminated. He said even the present code has not been enforced.

"I don't see how you can enforce the regulation on beards and mustaches when we have not been enforcing other dress code regulations with the exception of bare feet. I don't want the dress code and I think we should eliminate it."

Elmore escapees remain at large

MOUNTAIN HOME — Two men who escaped the Elmore County jail early Sunday are still at large and thought to be somewhere in Montana.

The fugitives, identified as Wallace Rhoades Jr., 22, Clark County, Nev., and James M. Shields, 20, Mountain Home, are also thought to be linked with the shooting death of a Montana man.

Sheriff's officers in Miles City, Mont., said a man's body found in a rest stop along Interstate-Highway-94 about two miles west of Miles City has been identified.

The name will not be released until relatives have been notified. Officers said the victim has been tentatively linked to Rhoades and Shields, but nothing concrete has been established yet.

The dead man's identity was apparently established through his use of a gasoline credit card at a station in Forsyth, Mont.

Officers said he had been shot six times in the head and chest with a .38 caliber pistol. He was found dead in the restroom of the rest stop.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation office in Boise has issued warrants for the arrests of the two escapees for unlawful flight.

Rhoades was in jail on a charge of involuntary manslaughter. Shields was being held for grand larceny and parole violation.

The two men overpowered Elmore County Sheriff Earl Winter during breakfast hour at the jail Sunday.

Mountain Home Police Officer Al Elsberry was later taken hostage by the pair.

Elisberry said the two pretended to be runaway juveniles when he spotted them Sunday morning. The fugitives ordered Elsberry to head toward Fairfield when they made him stop another car. The car had Oregon license plates and "They made the people get out and told me to get in and drive," he said.

The occupants, Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Huffolman, Dayville, Ore., were left by the side of the road unharmed.

The fugitives traveled several more miles with the police officer before leaving him handcuffed to a fence.

As of this morning, the Oregon car had not been located, officers said.

Investigation is being handled by the FBI in Butte, Mont., and the Rosebud County sheriff's office in central Montana.

Ugandan invaders hole up

KAMPALA (UPI) — A 1,000-man invasion force of Ugandan exiles from Tanzania dug in today in ideal defensive country just inside Uganda in an area filled with swamps and lakes, reports from the area said. The force had been reported in full retreat on Monday.

While Uganda Air Force planes made two abortive bombing raids on a Tanzanian town, President Idi Amin accused Tanzanian president Julius Nyerere and Dr. Milton Obote, of responsibility for the invasion. Obote was the man Amin ousted to take power in Uganda.

There had been no official announcement about the fighting in southwest Uganda since noon Monday when a military spokesman said the invading force was in full retreat after losing 230 killed and 50 captured.

In Dar-es-Salaam, Tanzania, UPI correspondent David Martin said today the original 700-man force, made up of "Ugandan exiles who followed Dr. Obote into Tanzania," was reinforced Monday night by another 300 Ugandan exiles.

"They are dug in," Martin said. "They have been reinforced. They have had supplies and ammunition, including new armaments, brought into them. They are apparently holding their own."

Relations between Tanzania and Uganda, which with Kenya make up the East Africa Community, deteriorated rapidly after Amin ousted Obote in a swift coup while Obote was out of the country. Tanzania has never recognized Amin's government. Obote has taken asylum with many of his followers in Tanzania.

Political encounter

DEMOCRATIC PRESIDENTIAL candidate Sen. Idaho subpoenas computer vendors

By DAVIDESPO
Times-News writer

BOISE — The state legislature's Joint Budget-Fiscal Committee was expected to issue subpoenas today to five major computer vendors.

The notices are the first in the history of the committee and have been used only rarely in legislative history.

John Anderson, legislative fiscal officer, said today the subpoenas would be served on individual executives of International Business Machines; Univac, a division of the Sperry Rand Corporation; Central Data Corporation; Honeywell and Burroughs Corporation.

Anderson declined to release the names of the individuals being subpoenaed until the notices had been served. He said, however, that committee staff members would present the subpoenas later today.

He said the subpoenas were notices to appear before a committee hearing scheduled for Friday, when the committee will look into "certain claims made by certain of the vendors if (state) procurement practices are not competitive."

The fiscal officer also said he had traveled to Twin Falls Monday night to confer with the committee co-chairmen, Sen. Richard S. High, R-Twin Falls and Rep. William Roberts, R-Buhl. Roberts said today the subpoena forms were signed at the meeting, but no individual names were filled in.

The subpoenas, he said, would insure a "very formal hearing," which would involve taking testimony under oath from the vendors. He also said state officials had been "invited" to the hearing, set to begin at 9 a.m. in the State House, but emphasized only the computer representatives would be served with subpoena notices.

Among state officials invited to appear are the state auditor, representatives of the State Highway Department, the Department of Administrative Services and the State Purchasing Agent.

He said the state auditor and the highway department had been involved recently in requests for bids from computer corporations and thus, were invited to the hearing.

Roberts said the reason for the subpoenas was to "put teeth" into the committee's desire to hear from the computer corporations involved.

"We're having the hearing to see if we need to change the statutes in the practices of competitive bidding," he said.

William J. Lanting, R-Hollister, House Speaker, said today the subpoenas would place the various computer vendors on an equal footing in presenting testimony. He said the subpoenas "permit" them to testify without "jeopardizing" their position regarding future contracts.

Lanting said he and Senate President Pro Tem James Ellsworth, R-Leodore, had requested the Fiscal-Budget Committee investigate the complaint made by Univac representatives. Lanting said that he did not know whether or not the complaints were justified.

The speaker said the Univac representatives had said that the "bids for computer hardware were awarded in such a manner that only IBM could qualify. The wording was so exclusive that only IBM could bid."

According to Lanting, "If you're going to ask for bids you have to find some way to make them competitive."

He said the legislative committee's action was not politically inspired to embarrass Gov. Cecil Andrus.

"We still have responsibility to the people to keep a constant watch on procedures that are not in line," Lanting said.

High court war ruling suggested

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — U.S. District Judge William T. Sweigert suggested Monday the U.S. Supreme Court make "a final statement" on whether American involvement in the Vietnam war is constitutional.

The high court should resolve the issue for the American people "who have been torn with controversy over the Vietnam war and who could again in the future be faced with a similar presidential war involvement," Sweigert said.

Sweigert made the comments in dismissing a suit filed last year by Aiden B. Campen, San Jose, Calif.

Booby trap kills Israeli

LONDON (UPI) — A booby trap parcel sent with letters of condolence mailed after the Munich massacre of 11 Israeli athletes exploded in the Israeli embassy today, killing the agricultural attaché and wounding the official who was to succeed him in a week.

In the second attack on Israeli diplomats abroad in 10 days, Dr. Ami Shachori, the embassy's 44-year-old agricultural affairs counselor, died when a bulky envelope he was opening exploded.

The blast deafened and slightly injured Kaddar Theodor, a diplomat who was to take over Shachori's post in a week. Shachori was ending a four-year stint at Israel's London embassy. His wife and two children already had gone home.

British Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home sent condolence messages to Shachori's widow, Israeli Ambassador Michael Comay and Israeli Foreign Minister Aba Eban. He expressed "disgust at the underhand act of terrorism."

The Foreign Office said the parcel that killed Shachori was mailed from Amsterdam.

Firing brings split into open

By DAVID ESPO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Robert Hale worked his last day as senior citizen program director at the South Central Community Action Agency July 11.

His ouster, handled in a series of meetings by various agency boards and committees, came after he had been at work for slightly over four months.

During that time the agency had finalized its contract grant for the fiscal year with the Idaho Office on Aging, the agency in Boise that channels federal aging funds.

But several of the senior citizens have since said that Hale personally had little effect on the grant writing, that the work was done almost in spite of him.

Hale admits he needed assistance in writing the programs properly for the state officials, but blames many of the problems he encountered on other agency staff members, some of whom, he said, "sabotaged" his efforts.

Nevertheless, his firing brought into the open a split among senior citizens in the area of Twin Falls, Cassia and Jerome counties.

figures, there are more than 11,000 senior citizens — 55 years of age or older — in the tri-county area.

According to Royal Slotten, chairman of the Tri-County Board of directors of the agency, they were "divided about 50-50" over the way Hale did his job as director of CAA's senior citizens' program.

The day Hale was fired by the executive functions in promoting a good working relationship among its employees;

— Failure to have the best interests of the senior citizens at heart;

— The acting director at the time, Mrs. Betty Wooten, failed to allow needed assistance for the projects from the Idaho Office on Aging;

— The manner in which the board and its committees asked for Hale's resignation.

At a subsequent CAA board meeting, the three groups presented the petitions, but final CAA action was deferred pending further study.

At a July 18 CAA executive committee meeting, called to discuss the petitions, the issue of Hale's tenure came under discussion.

According to official minutes of the meeting, the following exchanges occurred between Mrs. Kay Pell, director of the Idaho Department of Special Services, which has responsibility for the office on Aging and chairman of the Tri-County Board Slotten:

"Slotten: This board decided that the job the S. C. director was doing was not what we wanted."

"Pell: Does not the executive director decide this?"

"Slotten: Normally, but not in this case."

CSI seeks fund laws

TWIN FALLS — Trustees of the College of Southern Idaho, meeting Monday night, called for legislation to clear up procedure on funding of junior colleges.

The board instructed the attorney to prepare a draft of proposed legislation which could be presented to the Idaho legislature to correct a present misunderstanding of the Idaho code on fund distribution.

committee, July 7, the citizens involved in the projects in Burley, Kimberly-Hansen-Murtaugh and Buhl voted to petition the CAA board for disassociation from the agency.

A spokesman gave several reasons:

— Failure of the agency to provide proper communication with the senior citizens and coordination with the Idaho Office on Aging;

— Objection to the manner in which the CAA

Operator of car pool due funds

By RICHARD CHARNOCK
BOISE (UPI) — Idaho Board of Examiners told the operator of the defunct state car pool he may be entitled to payment for services rendered but he probably will have to go to court to get other damages.

Robert Miller, president of Inland Leasing and Management Co., presented to the board $155,969.77 worth of claims against the state — including $84,097.33 in estimated profits had the state lived up to a contract with him.

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus told Miller and fellow board members he still thinks the state car pool was a good idea but said the failure of the legislature to appropriate money for it made it impossible to continue operation of the pool after last July 1.

He pointed out that he created the pool by executive order more than a year ago and that as long as there was no legislation covering the pool there was no problem.

Until the last legislature passed a law creating the pool under the office of state purchasing agent the Department of Administrative Services had no problem in financing the pool through inter-account billings.

Creation of the pool by law, however, started a new ball game, Andrus said.

"I no longer had a void of legislation within which to work," he said.

"This is a matter of law and there is no money to pay for it."

Dale Clemmons, Miller's attorney, pointed out to the board that "there were bona fide contracts" Miller had with the state and said they should be honored. He said they called for five years' operation beginning with Aug. 10, 1971, but were cancellable by the state after two years.

That is why, he said, Miller is asking for unrealized profits up to next Aug. 10.

Under his agreement with the state Miller was to receive $30 for each car he bought for the state and $75 for each used car he sold for the state. One of his claims asked for $41,750 for such services already rendered. He also asked for $30,122.34, he said, is due on his contract through last June 30 plus his inventory of equipment.

Attorney General W. Anthony Park said he will sit down with Clemmons, Miller and others to work out what still is due Miller for services rendered and the board directed that he do so. But Park said the board in no way can pass judgment on what profits Miller might be entitled to for the year the contract still has to run and said that probably will have to be settled through litigation.

Andrus agreed.

"Obviously there will be some money due in this regard (for services rendered)," Andrus said.

Open-house set at senior center

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Senior Citizen Advisory Council has set Oct. 9 for the open-house opening of their senior citizen center.

Seniors and volunteers are at work this week and next preparing the building, on Second Avenue West in Twin Falls, for occupancy, washing interior surfaces and completing gardening work.

The building, purchased earlier this summer, has a walk-up ramp to assist persons with difficulty walking.

No inquest set in TF shooting

TWIN FALLS — No inquest is planned at this time in the Saturday night shooting death of a Twin Falls youth, Scott Hodkins, 17.

Twin Falls County Coroner Cloyce Edwards said today all reports indicate shotgun wounds were self-inflicted. "Edwards said he is waiting for further reports and lab tests. He said it has not been determined if the shooting was accidental or suicide. There had been no one else at the scene at the time of the incident, he said. Detective Capt. Tim Qualls, Twin Falls Police, said the death took place in the 300 block of Buchanan Street in Twin Falls.

"We were holding off revealing information about the incident until we could determine if it involved any criminal activity," Qualls said. "But apparently it didn't."

"In our opinion, the shooting was completely self-inflicted and didn't warrant an inquest," he said.

Bond study group to meet Wednesday

TWIN FALLS — Interested citizens will meet Wednesday to form a citizens committee to study a proposed Twin Falls school bond issue.

Mrs. Ruth Day, chairman of the Trustee Bond Committee, said "The purpose of this citizens committee will be to evaluate our present facilities. It will also recommend and direct the course of action, which the committee feels should be taken."

In spite of a drop in school enrollment this fall the board of trustees feels a bond election should be held, she said. Age and safety of school buildings, plus present classroom loads are of primary concern to the trustees. She cited a "general growth pattern of our community" evidenced by increased utility services and residential building activity.

A number of community organizations have been asked to be represented in the citizen's group. Mr. Day stressed that all

TF council OK's home shop plan

By RUTH MILLER
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — After long discussion Monday night, Twin Falls City Council okayed an application for a conditional use permit by a four to two vote.

The application had been made by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lingnaw to permit a one-chair beauty shop in an area of northeast Twin Falls zoned residential low density.

Five people appeared at the hearing to oppose the measure saying that such a use in the residential area would devalue property and open the door for other such uses.

In a notarized agreement presented to the council, the Lingnaws said the beauty shop would be operated only by Mrs. Lingnaw, and parking was provided for when the house was constructed at 2038 Concordia Way, that there would be no exterior signs and no public advertising of the salon.

In discussion prior to voting, Councilman Paul Ostyn said that when the Lingnaws purchased ground for home construction, such a use was permitted. It was after that purchase that the zoning ordinance was changed, making a hearing necessary before home business can be allowed in such areas.

Voting for the conditional use were Councilmen Ostyn, Michael Gray, Ann Cover and Mayor John Christoffersen. Voting "no" were Councilmen Winston Jones and Dr. Steve Lincoln. Tom Nelson abstained.

The application was one of four zoning requests to come before the council Monday night. All others passed the council with little or no discussion.

They included application for zoning property proposed for annexation into the city. This is 20 acres of property across Falls Avenue from the College of Southern Idaho.

The council approved zoning the tract as residential medium density, asking for a letter of intent to also annex, within two years, the remaining 10 acres immediately bordering Falls Avenue. The property, scheduled for planned unit development, is owned by Dave Armstrong.

Application for variance of set-back requirements to permit three-foot set-back for construction of a carport at 1201 Tenth Ave. E., was placed on third and final reading and approved by the council.

Also approved was application for conditional use in a residential medium-density zone for construction of an eight-unit apartment building on the Harrison Street area.

Applications for annexation of the Tommy Walker property and John Breckenridge property were referred to the planning and zoning commission for hearings next month. The council will hold public hearings on the matters Nov. 5.

The Walker property is occupied by Western Beverage Co and the Breckenridge property on Blue Lakes Boulevard North is the site of the future Rodeway Inn.

Airport dispersal agreement cleared

TWIN FALLS — Approval for signing a letter of agreement with the 57th Fighter Weapons Wing, Nellis Air Force Base, Nev., was given Monday night.

The agreement with the Twin Falls City Council states that the Twin Falls City-County Airport will provide space for aircraft and personnel in case of war or other national emergency requiring an emergency dispersal base.

Councilman Winston Jones, chairman of the city's airport commission, said also that the city has received a letter from the Federal Aviation Administration stating that funding for a control tower has been initiated and that FAA personnel will be in Twin Falls later this month to select a site for the tower.

City Manager Jean Milar also was authorized to call for bids, not to be opened before January, for two units of fire fighting equipment at the airport.

The equipment, anticipated to cost $80,000, is essential, Jones said. He said that partial federal funding is available.

Reserved site plan studied

BOISE (UPI) — State Parks Director Steven W. Bly says a reservation system for campsites in Idaho state parks is being considered for next summer.

Licenses in '9 due

TWIN FALLS — Ron Taylor, Twin Falls County assessor, today reminded motorists with license numbers ending in "9" they must renew them before the end of this month.

He said this does not apply to license plates not on the staggered system which expire Dec. 31, 1972. The new red and white stickers must appear on all plates on the staggered system by midnight Sept. 30 if the plates end in the number "9," Taylor said.

Owners should obtain the 1973 stickers by 5 p.m. Sept. 29 as the county offices are closed on Sept. 30. Persons planning on being out of the state in October and who have plates ending in "0" may obtain their 1973 stickers now, he said.

Vehicle inspection stickers with a "9" on the face also expire during the month and should be replaced prior to Sept. 30.

Also in Idaho state parks is being considered for next summer.

"We feel it is most important that people in the state of Idaho ought to have the opportunity to reserve a campsite in their own state park," Bly said.

"Also it will give us an idea of what to expect on a given weekend."

Bly said such a system would require a minimum fee, possibly $1.50, for an overnight stay.

He said problems have resulted in such areas as Redfish Lake where campers would park their camping vehicles and then leave them unattended for several days while exploring the wilderness.

"We are not in the business of providing overnight accommodations for people to take a shower and leave," Bly said.

"We want to provide a park and resources to enjoy within it," Bly said pressures on the state parks are such that the reservation system is being considered even if the National Park Service does not follow a suggestion that campers and trailers be prohibited on national park premises.

Speaks

WILLIS LUDLOW, Democratic candidate for the U. S. Second Congressional District, campaigned Monday in Twin Falls, speaking to two College of Southern Idaho government classes on one of his stops. He urged youth participation in the November elections.

Passage asked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Senate has been urged to pass the proposed Land Use Policy and Planning Assistance Act bill co-sponsored by Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho. Church is chairman of the Senate Interior subcommittee on public lands.

2 TF officers given awards

TWIN FALLS — Two Twin Falls Police officers were presented certificates Monday night during the council meeting, and then received pleasant news during later council discussion.

Officers Donald Hamann and Robert Magel were given their basic certificates from Mayor John Christoffersen. The certificates are from the Peace Officers Standards Training and Advisory Council.

The unexpected news came from Councilmen Paul Ostyn during discussion on purchase of new city equipment.

Among items which City Manager Jean Milar requested that he be allowed to call for bids for were three new police cars.

Ostyn asked that Milar be allowed to call for alternate bids for cars including air conditioning. Ostyn, who is police commissioner, said he had spent considerable time this past summer riding in city police cars and believed the question of air conditioning deserved some consideration.

The council also approved of calling for bids on a multi-channel recording system for the police department, a half-ton pickup truck for the water supply department, a 10-yard dump truck for the street department and a three-quarter ton van for the water distribution department.

The recording system for the police department would enable the department to record all calls and radio transmission. Chief Frank Barnett said two years ago the unit cost about $2,800, and if it cost about $3,000 now, all but about $750 would be financed by federal funds.

Barnett said, however, he has received information which indicates the unit may have nearly doubled in price in the past two years, in which case "we couldn't get it."

Youth said new political force

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Democratic Senate nominee William E. (Bud) Davis said Monday one of the "new ingredients" in the 1972 political sphere is the youth of Idaho.

In a speech to the Idaho high school journalism conference in Pocatello, Davis said the success of his campaign may well be determined by the youth vote.

"If the young people are apathetic and stay away from the polls, my people-oriented campaign will be seriously jeopardized," he said.

Meanwhile in Caldwell, congressional hopeful Ed Williams told high school students Monday that "America's disenchantment with government will not end until this country realigns its priorities."

The first district Democratic aspirant said the leadership changes in the November election will determine if those priorities ever change. He added it will be a choice between government serving the people and the "trickle-down" theory.

Williams said the "trickle-down" theory is based on money, and emphasizes big business with the hope it will trickle down to the working man.

Reforest law signed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. James McClure, R-Idaho, says president Nixon signed into law Monday a bill he co-sponsored earmarking certain import duties for new tree-planting programs.

McClure said the government would now begin allocating $65 million a year for a nationwide reforestation program.

"The use of duties collected on foreign timber products is the most appropriate way of financing the reforestation program. It is certain to pay big dividends for future generations," McClure added.

Wrecks injure 3

TWIN FALLS — Three persons were injured in two traffic accidents in the Magic Valley Sunday, Idaho State Police reported.

Dan Spreler, 60, and Kathleen Spreler, 60, both Paul, sustained minor injuries when their pickup truck overturned on Interstate 80N-12 miles west of Burley Sunday morning. State police said a wheel on a trailer being towed broke, causing Spreler to lose control of the truck.

A collision on the Rock Creek Road, four miles below the ranger station Sunday evening caused minor injuries to Stacey D. Banning, 5, Kimberly, 5, and Barbara M. Banning, 30, Kimberly.

State police said the Banning auto and a car driven by Ricky Lee Jepson, 18, Twin Falls, collided on a curve near the Jepson home, skidded across the roadway.

Not So Bad

Here's a question to help you start off the new television season: "Americans watch more television than they admit and television represents a dissatisfying and mind-dulling waste of time." True or false?

Many social critics would insist that the statement is true. But John P. Robinson, study director at the University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research, says it may not be.

Robinson reports that the average American spends about two hours a day watching television instead of three to six hours as has often been claimed. He bases his conclusions on five studies, in which he was involved, by the U. S. Surgeon General's Scientific Advisory Committee on Television and Social Behavior.

His findings are summarized in a recent paper published by the National Institute of Mental Health. "Although television is often criticized as being a cultural wasteland, the legions of television viewers say that watching television is pleasurable, entertaining and often education," he says.

The researcher reports that "majorities of viewers claimed that their favorite dramatic programs were both realistic and instructive." He adds that soap operas and medical programs were rated particularly high. Police and detective programs were seen as instructive.

Whether such statements are actually true or are rationalizations by heavy viewers is not easy to determine. "Few viewers in a pilot national sample consciously turned on their sets for educational purposes. Only 10 per cent spontaneously brought up information-seeking as a reason for watching television. Less than 20 per cent listed a news or education program as one of their favorites," Robinson says.

However, even if more people watched news and educational programs, it is unclear whether they would learn more.

"Frequent viewers of news programs showed almost no more awareness than those who seldom watched television news. Readers of magazines and newspapers, on the other hand, exhibited considerably greater awareness after other determinants were taken into account," Robinson says.

In two studies people were asked to identify various personalities in the news — such as Ralph Nader and Martha Mitchell — and in spite of their extensive media exposure, fewer than 30 per cent of those sampled could identify either of these news personalities.

However, frequent television watchers were more aware of certain general weather forecasting principles that are applied in daily TV weathercasts.

According to Robinson, such results raise the possibility that television works to increase "life knowledge" at the expense of "school knowledge."

Indeed, Robinson says, the test of how well television serves its role of educating and enlightening its audience must reach far beyond fragmented bits of knowledge.

"We must begin to see how people's horizons are opened or restricted by the things they see on television. Instead of asking 'What have you learned?' we need to ask, 'Has anything changed your way of looking at the world?'"

MONTOGOMERY, Ala. — Reaching for the hands of workers at the gates of the glove factory in the sleepy town of Greenville, Winton (Red) Blount repeated the same message over and over.

"I'm Red Blount," he said, "and I'm running for the U. S. Senate against George McGovern and his crowd."

Not a word about veteran Democratic Senator John Sparkman, who is Republican. Blount's opponent in the first serious, partisan Senatorial contest this Deep South state has ever seen.

The form sheet says Blount vs. Sparkman, but the only conceivable way President Nixon's former Postmaster General can win is to run not against Sparkman, an Alabama institution, but — against McGovern. Compared to his standing here, McGovern's national campaign looks positively glorious.

Conversely, Sparkman, to keep maximum distance from McGovern, has "declared complete independence from the national campaign and is playing footsie with Gov. George Wallace. Although he supported John F. Kennedy in 1960, the last year he ran for the Senate during a Presidential campaign, Sparkman is now saying that he has always campaigned in an outright separation from the national campaign. No matter how he is badgered, he refuses to say how he will vote for President on Nov. 7.

That is the inevitable impact of the Nixon "solid South" and the McGovern drag on Democratic Senate candidates here and in Georgia, Louisiana, North Carolina, Virginia and other Southern states. The Democrats are ostracizing their party's Presidential nominee and the Republicans are trying to cash in on the President's Southern strategy and McGovern's terminal case of political leprosy.

But even with the ostracism of McGovern and Mr. Nixon's magnolia charms, Blount is finding Sparkman more formidable than some White House political strategists will admit.

Part of the reason can be found, ironically, right inside the White House itself. Thus, either through incredible bungling or to satisfy a suicidal White House impulse, Sparkman has in his possession a letter initialed "RMN" praising him for "a demonstration of courage and statesmanship" in supplying help on two critical issues in the Senate — the President's May 8 peace proposal and the Vietnam fund cut-off battle.

In an Aug. 3 "Dear John" letter, Mr. Nixon, seeming to undercut his four-year struggle to elect a Republican Senate, wrote Sparkman, praising his responsible action in supporting the United States negotiating position.

The hard-driving Blount found out about the letter by chance from a prominent Democrat he is wooing away from Sparkman, and to whom Sparkman had sent the letter as evidence that, far from being the President's hater, he and Mr. Nixon were partners.

The encumbrance to Sparkman undoubtedly will be used by Blount as additional pressure to get Mr. Nixon down here before the election. But even if the President agrees, Blount still has to surmount the most dangerous problem of all — George Corley Wallace.

Wallace, out of political combat since his multiple wounds at the hands of an assassin last spring, seems itching to get back in next month. Anticipating the South's most popular politician is always hazardous; but Wallace strongly hinted to us over lunch at the governor's mansion here that he will endorse the state ticket, and that means Sparkman. Not even a Nixon stamping tour for Blount — highly unlikely in any event — could match a Sparkman endorsement by the governor.

Accordingly, Blount's last resort (in addition to his own inexhaustible campaigning) is that black voters will give John Lafore, Senate nominee of Dr. John Cashin's black-based National Democratic Party of Alabama, at least 100,000 votes.

But the critical factor is still Wallace, both here and in other Southern states. A word from him could blacken Mr. Nixon's vision of a Republican Senate takeover, which is why all eyes down here are once again on George Wallace.

Common Market

WASHINGTON — What happened to American athletes at Munich is symbolic of larger things. The United States, you might say, is losing the economic Olympics.

The high attention given our trade problems with Japan has tended to obscure others that, in the long run, may be worse. We are being seriously squeezed down in our vital trade with the nations of the European Economic Community.

The EEC, through its internal trade and its preferential trade agreements with non-EEC countries, is becoming an enormous and increasingly exclusive trading bloc.

"It already has special tariff arrangements with some 30 nations. The total will pass 50 when Britain enters the Common Market in 1973.

Even by itself, the EEC is today, the world's largest trading unit, having surpassed the United States within the last 12 months.

The prospect, then, is that American exports will have a harder and harder time surmounting tariff barriers in Europe and elsewhere. We may be more dependent than ever upon markets in Canada, the rest of the Western Hemisphere, and Japan.

Most disturbing in this situation is the EEC's continued policy of protectionism in farm products.

We are the world's most efficient producers of agricultural products, and of course the biggest exporter. Yet the nations of the EEC have firmly held to programs of support for their own farm products, even at cost of high European food prices.

Underlining the bad trade news for the United States is a new trade report from the Organization of Economic Cooperation and Development.

It revealed a whole host of unresolved differences between the United States and the EEC. William Eberle, President Nixon's special trade representative and the U. S. member of the group which produced the report, voiced keen disappointment with the findings. He was particularly distressed with the group's collective judgment that farm products are different from industrial products in trade terms, and that many years may have to pass before barriers to freer flow of agricultural goods are brought down.

Eberle's over-all complaint against the report was that it seemed to reflect a general tendency among the West European countries to stall indefinitely on trade readjustments of great importance to us.

In a personal postscript to the document, he wrote: "I cannot conceal my regret that the report does not, in my judgment, reflect an appropriate degree of urgency of clarity, particularly with respect to long-range objectives for the international trading system."

The wide U. S.-European gulf is considered a very bad augury for a proposed major trade conference in 1973. Some experts are suggesting that parity may be a "last chance" to establish a reasonable, updated international trade framework.

Today the outlook is dark. Curiously, the "troubling" OECD report came out at just about the time President Nixon was highlighting our trade difficulties with Japan in his Hawaii meeting with Premier Tanaka.

In the long run, the Japanese are likely to be our allies in the struggle to keep world trade open and multi-lateral. They, too, have felt severely the exclusively trade policies of the European bloc.

For us, the European trend has a disastrous portent, and we need every friend we can get in this battle.

L. Patrick Who?

Who is this man presiding over the desk? How dare anybody! L. Patrick who?

I have no apology for having fallen under the spell of L. Edgar Hoover. I loved him as a patriot, admired him as an administrator, respected him as a man.

He gave me a private, personal whipping once. Verbal — but no less painful. I had it coming.

But when it was over, for what he called my "good intentions," he presented me with a handsome set of gold cuff links engraved with my own fingerprints.

I understand Gen. Eisenhower received from him a similar pair; perhaps others did. But these are among my greatest treasures.

Down through the years I could not let myself contemplate a future for our nation of laws without this incomparable lawman.

When the inevitable day came, my only consolation was that the man in the White House shared my immense respect for the Director.

Now, who is this L. Patrick Gray who is trying to fill those huge shoes?

Doctor Says

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I jumped from a ladder and hit my heel and on the ground. I could hardly put any weight on it because of the pain.

It is now two weeks later and it is still touchy. I put heat on it and liniment but it is slow healing.

I was told I had bruised the bone. Just what happens when the bone is bumped hard like that? — F. F. W.

A "bone bruise" can result from a solid, blunt blow to an unprotected bone, such as the shin. There is bleeding under the surface of the bone — just as a bruise that you can see is the result of bleeding below the surface of the skin.

In time the blood in a bone bruise will absorb, but not necessarily in two weeks.

From the type of your injury, I would suspect that you may have damaged a bursa in the heel — a bursa being a fluid-filled sac over a bone. Just guesswork on my part, of course, but an inflamed bursa (bursitis, in other words) would remain painful because of any pressure on it.

You could, of course, have bruised the heel. Who told you it was a bone bruise? Your doctor, or just somebody who volunteered a horseback opinion?

In either case, continue the heat, which helps, but try to keep pressure off the sore heel.

A soft heel pad or rubber or other material) to shift your weight may help and is distinctly worth trying.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My sister has shingles, a real bad case on her stomach. The doctor gave her several shots and pain pills and lotion. The blisters are gradually bursting and she lches and burns something awful. Do you have a pamphlet on shingles? We've heard shingles will come back time and again. Is this so? — Mrs. F. V.

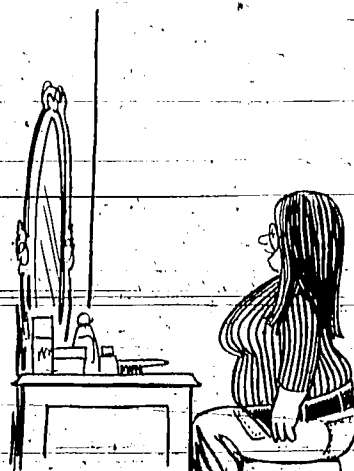

Yes, I have a booklet, "The Facts About Shingles," which will take some of the mystery out of this affliction for you. Send 15 cents in coin and a long self-addressed, stamped envelope for a copy. Send request to Dr. Thosteson, care of Times-News.

Both pain and itching can be extreme with shingles, which is a particular type of virus disease. The duration of the disease varies greatly, depending largely on the patient's general health and age to begin with.

There can be some rise and fall in the intensity of an attack, too, which has been the origin of the idea that shingles can "come back time and again."

Actually, this is not true. Once the attack is ended, there is no reason to fear the ailment will return. Seldom if ever does a patient get a second attack.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Hi there, Gloria Steinem!"

Upward Trend Resumes

Yellowstone Park, long regarded as a barometer of the summer tourist business, perhaps because it is more centrally located than any other great parks, resumed its long trend upward in attendance this summer. The number of tourist visitors dropped in 1971, but is now back within striking distance of the 1970 figure. To the end of August this year, 1.9 million visitors entered the five gates of the park, compared to 2 million in 1970.

It is clear the traffic problem in Yellowstone and other parks will not be alleviated by a decline in attendance. Yellowstone's accommodations have long been inadequate. Obviously steps must soon be taken to ration them.

Commie attack pushed

SAIGON (UPI)—Communist troops Monday launched heavy attacks on the Central Coast against defenders of a district capital and nearby outposts in South Vietnam's least secure province, military sources said today.

Three American advisers with a government unit were wounded in one of the attacks, centered near the district capital of Bong Son in Binh Dinh Province 290 miles north of Saigon, the U.S. command said. Binh Dinh has long been rated by U.S. pacification experts as the country's most dissident.

The command also disclosed that two U.S. Navy airmen were missing in the crash of their A6 Intruder jet northeast of Hanoi Sunday only hours before the North Vietnamese government released three American prisoners of war in a ceremony in the capital. Spokesmen said the exact location of the crash and its cause were not known.

Air Force spokesmen officially announced that Capt. Charles D. DeBellevue, 27, of Lafayette, La., was credited with bringing down his sixth North Vietnamese MIG jet fighter—giving him more MIG kills than any other American in the Vietnam War.

In air action, the command reported 230 U.S. fighter-bomber strikes Monday over North Vietnam and said 15 B52s bombed Communist positions around Dong Hoi just north of the Demilitarized Zone. Spokesmen said the fighter-bombers knocked out 12 bridges, 24 warehouses, 18 trucks and 16 small supply ships. A total of 57 B52s hit targets in North and South Vietnam Monday and today, officials said.

South Vietnamese spokesmen said the North Vietnamese fired about 500 rounds of 82mm mortar shells on a government position about three and a half miles southwest of Bong Son Monday and that a ground battle followed. The Communist gunners hit an adjacent government camp with 50 mortar rounds a few hours earlier, spokesmen said.

Sen. Stennis puzzled on air strikes

WASHINGTON (UPI)—After listening to some of the military's top officers, Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., said Monday he was puzzled on one higher than Gen. John D. Lavelle knew of illegal air strikes in Vietnam.

Gen. John D. Ryan, Air Force Chief of Staff, told the Senate Armed Services Committee he had "no knowledge or basis for belief there was any such action by anyone else" other than Lavelle, according to Stennis.

Ryan would not talk with reporters after emerging from nearly three hours of testimony at a closed committee session except to say his testimony was the same as he gave earlier to the House Armed Services Committee.

He said then his first knowledge of the air raids made without provocation against targets in North Vietnam and prohibited by administration rules was an Air Force sergeant's letter to Sen. Harold Hughes, D-Iowa.

Stennis' committee received similar testimony of non-involvement by Gen. Creighton Abrams, whose promotion to Army chief of staff is in question while the committee investigation is continuing, and Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Election date set

BONN (UPI)—Chancellor Willy Brandt has ended months of speculation by naming Nov. 10 for West Germany's first premature parliamentary election.

Technically President Gustav Heinemann still has the responsibility for naming the election date. But political sources expected him to follow the chancellor's recommendation.

For several weeks the Bonn press had been speculating on Dec. 3 as the most likely date.

Shipment blocked

SUPPORTED BY A LINE of riot police, trucks carrying U.S. armored personnel carriers make their way to a military pier in Yokohama, Japan, Tuesday. Japanese riot police fought off hundreds of leftist demonstrators, who believing the vehicles were headed for Vietnam, had kept a month-long vigil from a tent city outside the depot in an effort to block the shipment. (UPI)

Japanese police battle demonstrators in Tokyo

TOKYO (UPI)—Japanese riot police battled hundreds of leftist demonstrators south of Tokyo today to successfully open a path for 10 U.S. Army armored personnel carriers being taken to a Yokohama pier for shipment.

About 5,000 protesters tried to block the shipment, which they said was bound for the war in Vietnam. U.S. officials did not say where the vehicles were headed.

The police evicted an estimated 1,500 of the demonstrators from in front of the U.S. Army supply depot at Sagamihara and escorted the convoy of heavy-duty trucks carrying the canvas-wrapped vehicles to the U.S. military's north pier. They reported no major incidents along the 19-mile route after they got by the demonstrators.

After an all-night confrontation outside the depot, police reported 25 demonstrators arrested and 75 policemen and five demonstrators injured.

Three U.S. Army military policemen opened the gates to the depot at 6:15 a.m. and the trucks rolled onto the street. Police fought back demonstrators who tried to throw themselves beneath the wheels of the vehicles.

A heavy police guard escorted the trucks on the hour-long drive to north pier. Hundreds of riot police guarded the 19-mile route.

Movement of military vehicles from the base had been suspended since Aug. 5 when demonstrators stopped a convoy carrying four M48 tanks and an armored carrier bound for north pier. It eventually was forced to return to the depot.

A small group of demonstrators had staged a month-long sit-in outside the depot in an effort to force the government to stop movement of the vehicles and to close down the base.

Their ranks swelled Monday night when word was broadcast that the convoy would move at 5 a.m. today. The departure was delayed while police cleared the street.

City authorities approved the shipment after the Japanese government promised to close down or curtail operations at the depot where the vehicles are repaired.

Prisoner's wife calls stop to bombing raids

TOKYO (UPI)—Hanoi's Vietnam News Agency (VNA) Monday quoted the wife of a U.S. pilot shot down while bombing North Vietnam as saying the raids "have got to stop" and said the mother of another fier called the bombing "so unnecessary."

The VNA report said Mrs. Olga Charles, wife of Navy Lt. Norris Alphonzo Charles of San Diego, and Mrs. Minnie Lee Gartley, mother of Lt. J.G. Markham L. Gartley of Dundee, Minn., toured bomb-damaged areas within the Hanoi city limits Monday and witnessed "extensive damage done by the American bombing."

VNA said the women were scheduled for more sightseeing in the North Vietnamese capital today. Charles, Gartley and Maj. Edward Elias of Valdosta, Ga., all prisoners of war, were released Sunday in a downtown Hanoi ceremony. They are expected to leave for home Saturday.

VNA, monitored in Tokyo, said the American women had visited the Bach Mai Hospital, largest in North Vietnam, and "learned that the doctors and medical personnel had performed surgical operations on 29 victims of a U.S. bombing just the previous night."

The dispatch said the women were shown the Trung Dinh residential quarters where "four U.S. 2,000 pounders (bombs) on June 27 destroyed eight blocks of houses and killed or wounded 44 persons, mostly women and children."

"I think it's terrible looking at all of these buildings," VNA quoted Mrs. Charles as saying. "No one can hardly mistake these for nothing. It harms, and it's just terrible to see this. This has got to stop. Decent people are just being hurt for no reason at all. It is a shame."

"I must say," VNA quoted Mrs. Gartley as saying, "homes mean so much to people. I'm aware that families are the basis of life and culture everywhere. But this thing that homes were destroyed so needlessly and is so unnecessary touches both Mrs. Charles and myself."

The family was unable to make the trip to Hanoi for the release ceremony. The other two families were reported staying at Hanoi's Metropole Hotel with members of the U.S. peace group that arranged their freedom—David Dellinger, Mrs. Cora Weiss, the Rev. William Sloane Coffin Jr., and Professor Richard Falk.

McGovern eyes TV talk

CHICAGO (UPI)—Sen. George McGovern may get off the campaign trail next week in an effort to pep up his lagging campaign for the presidency with a nationwide television talk to the American people.

McGovern's advisers said the Democratic presidential nominee, disturbed by his inability to communicate with the people through the news media, was "seriously considering" dropping off the campaign trail for a few days, to return to Washington at midweek and purchase television time for a direct talk to the people.

Down 34 percentage points in the polls, McGovern scheduled appearances in four cities today—Chicago, Milwaukee, Flint, Mich., and Columbus, Ohio—in a continuation of his effort to reach as many "media markets"—areas covered by local television stations and newspapers—as physically possible.

In a statement issued in Chicago today, McGovern—a Methodist minister's son—endorsed the support of private and parochial schools with taxpayer funds, a position to which he has been leaning for several weeks.

He said he backed legislation pending in the House to provide income tax credits for parents who send their children to nonpublic schools.

McGovern announced, after several weeks of deliberation, that he backed legislation to provide a tax write-off for parents who send their children to nonpublic schools.

Although the Supreme Court has not yet ruled whether such tax credits would be consistent with the Constitution's church-state separation provisions, McGovern said the direction of the court's opinions indicated they eventually would.

McGovern's statement was a bid for the support of the nation's Catholic voters who have been cool to him. Some big city leaders with large Catholic constituencies have long urged McGovern to take a firm stand for public aid to the Catholic schools—many of them in dire financial straits.

Top ace named for Indochina war

SAIGON (UPI)—The U.S. Air Force announced today it has credited Capt. Charles D. DeBellevue with shooting down a sixth North Vietnamese MIG actually crashed. The other Air Force Ace—Capt. Steve Ritchie and the U.S. Navy's two Aces, Lt. Randy Cunningham and Lt. William Driscoll, all have five kills. DeBellevue was weapons board of inquiry credited him systems operator for Ritchie on four kills over North Vietnam, but was on leave when Ritchie bagged another one. On Sept. 9, while Ritchie was being decorated in Saigon, DeBellevue was flying with another pilot into a swirling dogfight close to the Phuc Yen Airfield 15 miles north of Hanoi. Three North Vietnamese MIGs and one Air Force Phantom were shot down that day. DeBellevue was given credit for a MIG19 blown out of the sky with an air-to-air missile that day. That kill made five MIGs for him and gave him the status as the second Air Force Ace in the war. Ritchie was the first. DeBellevue also was credited with another possible MIG kill in that dogfight.

Lebanese village trap for Israeli force

By THOMAS CHEATHAM
BRIT-JAROUN, Lebanon (UPI)—Israeli troops entered Lebanon to the waves and greetings of dozens of villagers. They left after buying some gas for their armored cars.

The difference between past raids into Lebanon against Arab guerrillas and the one this weekend lay in what happened between the raids—the Lebanese army joined the war for the first time, playing havoc with one of the three Israeli spearheads. Previously, Lebanese troops had stood by and watched as Israeli warplanes, artillery and soldiers attacked many of the estimated 3,000 guerrillas in the southern part of the country.

Saturday, with an inaccurate recoilless rifle barrage at an advancing Israeli armor column moving into Beit Jaroun, it served notice that the attitude has changed following allegations—from Israel—that Beirut supports the guerrillas and their attacks.

The Israelis quickly called in tank, cannon and air strikes against the Lebanese army bunker on the slope of this hilltop Moslem town about five miles from the border with Israel. Some shells ricocheted into the village itself.

As the bombs and shells kicked up a cloud of dust that enshrouded all but the tip of the mosque, the Lebanese effort collapsed. One of the army officers, a lieutenant colonel, was captured.

Premier Sheb Salam said last week the resistance would come with all of Lebanon's might, regardless of sacrifices. Whatever the sacrifice Saturday—Israeli troops did not stop to count casualties—it slowed their advance.

By the time they reached their objective, Kafra, 10 miles farther north, the guerrillas they expected to find there had vanished.

They went through with the search of suspected hideouts, calling out women and children before going in, but as the unit's deputy commander said, "They're gone. It's probably because we were held up by the Lebanese."

Even so, a flurry of machine gun fire into a nearby gully turned up four guerrillas hiding there, one in a green-blue uniform who told his captors about many other guerrillas in the area.

En route there, they caught a man driving with Palestinian pamphlets in his car. A tank crushed the small car into a two-foot-high pancake on the theory that the car had been used for guerrilla purposes. They also ran into two Lebanese army tanks that were ready to fight.

After 90 minutes and a few shots back and forth, the Israelis decided to take another path to Beit Jaroun. Their commander had told them the enemy was still the guerrillas, not the Lebanese soldiers.

Beit Jaroun was a trap. Guerrillas were waiting in second story windows along the main street and opened up when the Israeli column came in.

Back came a violent array of firepower, from rockets to small arms bullets, mercilessly delivered by Israeli youngsters who had learned well to keep their cool under fire. Two Israeli troops were fatally wounded. Leaping out of their armored trucks, demolition experts raced to the guerrilla-held buildings, planted sacks full of charges and blew them up in a cloud of dust.

Stunned by the ambush, their half trucks running out of gas from the day's unplanned diversions, the Israelis made camp about 25 miles from home, far from being back the same day as many had expected.

Guerrillas ambushed again as the Israelis broke camp before dawn and fled south toward home. Bazookas and tracer bullets fell all around the trucks but no one was reported hurt.

A sister unit, waiting down the mountain road on the belief the mechanized infantry outfit was in trouble, escorted the beleaguered troops the rest of the way, towing many of their out-of-gas vehicles.

On the way through Tibnin, they stopped at a village gas station to get some fuel and the owner rushed out to help, apparently happy to be of service.

Angry Cassia, East TF seniors declare independence

"Pell: Then Betty Wooten, (acting executive director) with the board's approval fired Hale." "Slotten: Anyone has a right to appeal." But later in the meeting, Slotten appeared to reverse his statement, when he said: "Mr. Hale was on probation for six months. Either the employee or the board may give two weeks notice during this period."

"Pell: Then the board took Betty's power." "Slotten: We decided otherwise. People here are asking for action, for things to happen. The job was not being done to the satisfaction of the SCAA board."

At a later point in the meeting, Slotten said: "This board that can release an executive director can also release a program director."

Later, Mrs. Pell said: "Pell: The board gives the director the power. If you were operating as you should Betty would have fired with the board's approval. Whoever is executive director is responsible."

"Slotten: I agree and Betty did ask Regional Office X for advice." Later in the meeting, Slotten, whose opinion of Hale apparently shifted as the weeks had gone along, gave the reasons for his change of heart: "There has been some dissension about the director. The community seems to be divided about 50-50. . . He (Mr. Hale) was on the phone continually writing letters to me; even my wife was kept on the phone. In my capacity as chairman, I tried to talk to the man; I had to fire him or resign; more board members were becoming involved. I did so much of his work we didn't need a director. Cassia was split over this issue, Twin was split over this issue. If that's a good job, what's a bad job. No secret reason there is none. I didn't start the drive; I resisted."

Anyone has a right to appeal

I don't run that (Tri-County) board; the majority rules.

"Pell: I wonder if it does in personnel." "Slotten: We had an acting director who chose not to act."

Meanwhile, the senior-citizens pushed ahead with their petitions for disassociation. Of the three groups seeking to leave the agency, Buhl withdrew its petition.

According to Mrs. Frieda Johnston, senior citizens coordinator in Buhl, the decision to cancel the petition was taken following a meeting with Mrs. Pell, in which the director spelled out the advantages of working within the CAA framework.

But Kimberly-Murtaugh-Hansen and Cassia County were insistent, and on Aug. 15 at a Tri-County Board meeting, they pressed their demands. Once again, the board declined to take action, asking the groups to try to work with the new executive director, Bobby Russell.

In the interim, executive director Russell had exchanged correspondence with state officials over the fate of the program money for the two groups.

In an Aug. 11 letter to the Office on Aging, Russell requested that the funds for the two programs be held and disbursed by the Office on Aging.

Office deputy director Wil Overgaard responded that the money would be held pending final decision of the board on the petitions.

The two groups, following the meeting, wrote to the Office on Aging, attempting to establish their fiscal capability, necessary to receiving the money directly from the state office.

But several days later, the executive committee of the CAA board authorized Russell to petition the Office on Aging for all the funds for the two programs, in effect reversing the stand he had taken in a letter a few weeks earlier.

The office responded by slapping the agency on the wrist for its "inappropriate" requests.

Representatives of the five senior citizens groups are split over the Hale situation, as well as over the funds.

Zella Pace, chairman of the group in Jerome, said, Hale "kind of fouled up at one time with the federal grants. Hale didn't affect our getting our grant."

But Fonda Cannell, a member of the Cassia County group, views the situation differently. "The Cassia County group was pretty well fed up when Hale was let go. He was O.K. . . Later, she said, "He (Hale) was good, he was really good at it. He made mistakes, but they were stupid grievances."

Mrs. Jessie Beckstrand, a member of the group in Buhl and the west end of Twin Falls County, said: "People are real excited about the program now. Everyone is behind us. It's sad there has to be such a hassle when we are trying to help people."

Mrs. Beckstrand said "some of them didn't like Hale, and some did. I think he tried real hard."

In the Kimberly-Murtaugh-Hansen group, chairman Mrs. Emma Boyer is strongly set against the CAA, largely because of the Hale issue. In an interview, she charged the only reason the CAA wants the group to stay with it is "because of the dollar sign, certainly not because they love us."

"CAA is out of the picture as far as we're concerned. This program was promised the senior citizens by an act of Congress, and it's going to take an act of Congress to stop it," Mrs. Boyer said.

Since the two groups chose to press their petitions, their two coordinators in the programs, Betty Blei in Burley and Ruth Mitchell in Kimberly-Murtaugh-Hansen, are no longer working for the agency.

On the night of the Aug. 15 senior citizens meeting with the Tri-County Board, Mrs. Blei said the reason for the petitions, was to put a stop to the senior citizens being "harassed and brainwashed by the CAA agency."

Mrs. Mitchell, who refused to give her name after the meeting, made the statement that Hale was fired in a "Kangaroo court type way."

After the same meeting, Mrs. Boyer also charged there was a $30,000 slush fund in the agency, hinting there had been illegal use of federal money. She quoted Betty Wooten as having made the statement at a public meeting.

Mrs. Wooten, however, said the money in question is roughly $30,000 left over from recent program years, and was in a bank, where the federal government could request it at its will.

Mrs. Loretta Putzier, the agency bookkeeper, confirmed this, saying about $21,000 was from two years ago, and the remainder from the year just completed.

While the debate rages on over the senior citizens projects, the three groups that chose to stay with the agency are the clear short-run winners.

For the present, they continue to receive the Office on Aging funds that were granted as part of the overall program, and they have paid coordinators working with the groups, Tad Ross, Hale's former secretary in Jerome; Frieda Johnston in Buhl and Lorna Bolton in Twin Falls. Mardene Butler is program head in the agency.

Hale's supporters claim that Mrs. Butler of Jerome tried to force Hale out of the job so she could have the position. Hale says they did not get along.

In fact, since Hale has left, Mrs. Butler took over Hale's work under a new job title.

But, Mrs. John Reichard, a member of the CAA executive committee, claims no deal was ever made. "We'll never convince people of it, though," she says.

Mrs. Reichard says Mrs. Butler could have had the senior citizen job before Hale was ever hired, but turned it down.

Mrs. Butler confirms Mrs. Reichard's claims, adding: "I didn't want it," and adding she didn't apply for the job she has now received.

The two renegade groups, operating on shoestring budgets, profess to be unconcerned about the lack of funds.

Walter Smythe, a member of the Cassia County group, said after the Aug. 15 meeting "the senior citizens are just as smart as old people as when they're younger and we can make our way."

Mrs. Fonda Cannell, a Cassia County senior citizens member, reports volunteer labor and organizers are developing the Cassia program.

In Jerome, with federal funds, the program seems to be faring better. Members have taken a trip to Sun Valley in their bus, and schedule a trip into Jerome twice a week. There are card games and potluck dinners.

In Twin Falls, the group is purchasing a house and has begun recently converting it into a "drop-in center" for the senior citizens in the area.

Plans call for a pool table, a kitchen, television and other recreation areas for those wanting to visit.

In Buhl, the seniors also have a building, which they are working on preparing for occupancy.

If the senior citizens now remaining with the agency are the short-run winners, there are signs that the other two groups, Kimberly-Murtaugh-Hansen and Cassia County may be ready now to reach a compromise.

The group in the east end of Twin Falls County scheduled a meeting today with Office on Aging officials to formulate an agreement for the group to have "delegate agency status," and the possibility is expected to arise tonight when the senior citizens program is discussed at a Tri-County Board of directors meeting in Burley.

Rookie of the Year

State says ADC load rises 25% during year

BOISE (UPI) — A

preliminary study of aid to families with dependent children caseloads conducted by the Department of Social and Rehabilitation Services show a 25 per cent increase in cases.

Department Commissioner, Dr. John R. Marks, told a news conference in Boise Monday, the increase appeared in the study for July 1971 to March 1972. The study was undertaken early this summer to determine the increase causes.

"There is very little reluctance or hesitancy on the part of most people," Marks said. "To apply for public assistance if they believe they are eligible."

Most persons who become eligible for assistance are already aware of the department as a source of financial aid, or they are made aware of it very soon after they become eligible," he said the study showed. Marks said his department is proceeding with a further elaboration of the study to determine more of the reasons why the 25 per cent rise occurred.

"The age range of persons applying for aid has moved downward due to instability of early marriages and economic problems," he said. "There is a rise of the divorce rate along with desertion in Idaho, coupled with what I consider to be somewhat of an economic recession," he said.

The study showed: The median age of the mother in these cases approved during the recent caseload increase is only 25 years, compared to a median age of 30 among the caseload as a whole. Six per cent of all active cases have non-reported earned income.

The most frequently mentioned causes of family breakup among the sample cases were incompatibility, husband's excessive use of liquor, and immaturity of the marriage partners.

And, the most important conditions causing recipients to apply or re-apply for assistance during the increase period included the need for medical attention and loss or reduction of employment.

Marks said the educational system must be looked to for providing more vocational training for high school students so they may become skilled workers.

3 states holding primaries today

By United Press International
Primary elections were being held today in Massachusetts, Washington and Oklahoma and in one congressional district in New York City where state courts nullified the June 20 primary because of irregularities.

Tight congressional races and a three-man Democratic battle for the right to challenge U.S. Sen. Edward W. Brooke in November topped the Massachusetts primary. Brooke, the only black in the Senate, was unopposed in the GOP primary.

In Washington, voters will choose candidates for governor. The Republican party's nomination was expected to go to Gov. Dan Evans, who is seeking a third term. Former Gov. Albert D. Rosellini, defeated eight years ago by Evans, had two opponents for the Democratic nomination.

In New York, Rep. John Rooney, an old-line Democrat with 14 terms in the House, again faced Allard K. Lowenstein, one of the founders of the antiwar movement. The state Supreme Court ordered the special Democratic primary in the 14th Congressional District after it determined there were numerous "irregularities" in the June voting.

Runoff elections in Oklahoma will add a fourth candidate to the state's Corporation Commission race in November and determine the Republican challenger for the 1st Congressional District. Most of the state's contested nominations were decided in the Aug. 22 primary.

The race for the 5th Congressional District seat in Massachusetts erupted in charges and counter-charges Monday. The brother and a campaign worker for Democratic candidate John F. Kerry were arrested in the basement of a building housing the headquarters of one of Kerry's nine primary opponents, state Rep. Anthony DiFruscio.

DiFruscio equated the incident with the Washington "Watergate" bugging affair.

Kerry, who gained prominence as a leader of Vietnam Veterans Against the War, said the men were checking out an anonymous report that Kerry's telephone lines, located in the basement, were to be vandalized.

In the 9th Congressional District, Rep. Louise Day Hicks, an outspoken opponent of busing to achieve racially balanced schools, was in a tough fight with five Democratic primary opponents, some of whom support her stand.

Actor dies

VETERAN Russian-born actor Akim Tamiroff, who stayed behind when his Soviet drama troupe made an American tour in 1923, died in Palm Springs, Calif. Monday at the age of 72, following a long illness.

Union aides endorse McGovern

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union executive committee endorsed Sen. George McGovern Monday but said the Democratic presidential nominee would have to be kept under "constant pressure" if elected.

The independent union, with about 50,000 longshoremen, warehouse, sugar and pineapple workers on the West Coast and in Hawaii, said the pressure on McGovern would be necessary to secure the interests of the working man.

McGovern challenges Nixon for 'sitting smugly on top of poll'

By United Press International
Sen. George McGovern continued to challenge President Nixon to campaign following a Nixon speech in which he did not once mention his Democratic opponent by name and First Lady Pat Nixon's declaration that she was "taking the White House to the people."

On his second major campaign tour of September, McGovern criticized Nixon for

"sitting there in the White House smugly on top of his Gallup poll."

The latest poll gave Nixon a 34 per cent lead in public opinion over McGovern.

Nixon told an international narcotics conference, attended by representatives of 50 nations, that the United States would suspend all economic and military assistance to "any government whose leaders participate in or protect the activities of those who contribute to our drug problem."

Nixon's speech Monday at the State Department came only hours after McGovern said that Nixon would not move against Southeast Asian nations which are a central source of heroin for the United States where heroin addiction has doubled since Nixon's inauguration.

The President did not mention McGovern by name, nor did he specify countries in his general attack on narcotics source nations. Nixon returned to the White House to enact a bill to permit the use of methadone in treating addicts.

McGovern, stumbling through West Virginia, Ohio and Illinois, asked whether Nixon's proposed restrictions would apply to South Vietnam and President Nguyen Van Thieu.

In fact, the narcotics industry reaches deep into the Thieu regime," McGovern said in Cincinnati. "Considering the deadly nature of the drug problem here, the size of the drug threat in Southeast Asia and the disinterest shown by the Thieu government, I want to know if Mr. Nixon will apply his plan there."

Mrs. Nixon began a seven-state tour representing the President. She visited a Republican campaign center in Chicago and told a news conference that she was willing to die to save the 17 million people of South Vietnam for aggression.

Mrs. Nixon also said her only knowledge of the alleged bugging by Republicans of Democratic national headquarters and the alleged mistreatment of Mrs. Martha Mitchell was what she read in the newspapers.

McGovern's running mate, Sargent Shriver, carried the Democratic campaign today to Pittsburgh community workers after spending Monday with steelworkers.

In McGovern's absence from Washington, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., waved packaged luncheon meat and hot dogs, canned peaches and beans to demonstrate inflation under the administration.

Proxmire, D-Wis., told the Senate that wage-price controls had failed in the light of 49 to 63 per cent increases in the prices of the food items he held.

Washington, D.C., teachers defy court order, strike

By United Press International
Teachers in the District of Columbia, angry over personnel cuts and a pay raise bill stalled in Congress, went on strike today in defiance of a court order.

All but five of the schools serving 140,000 students in the nation's capital were being picketed, a spokesman for the D.C. Teachers union, a chapter of the American Federation of Teachers, said.

Teachers continued to strike today also in Philadelphia as well in some other parts of Pennsylvania. Some teachers also stayed on strike in Rhode Island and Wisconsin although most strikers in Rhode Island returned to classrooms.

Some schools in Las Vegas were boycotted in a parents' protest over a federal busing order to achieve racial desegregation.

In Washington, a teachers union spokesman, Charles Richards, said "initial reports indicate only five schools are uncovered" by pickets. He said the number of pickets at each school numbered from three to nearly 40.

A vice-principal at one D.C. school said the strike was "a tremendous demonstration of unity" among teachers and nonprofessional employees who stayed off the job.

The House District Committee had a meeting scheduled for today but a battle between liberals and conservatives over a home rule bill threatened to stall action on the pay-raise bill.

D.C. Superior Court Judge Robert Campbell signed a temporary restraining order before dawn today, but William Simons, president of the American Federation of Teachers' local, said it was too late to prevent the walkout.

School Superintendent Hugh Scott said he would try to use administrators, principals and 3,000 non-union members to conduct classes for 140,000 students. Classes for 62,000 secondary students opened Monday 12 days behind schedule because of a lack of funds for operating expenses.

Although the AFT has a valid contract with the capital city's board of education, teachers voted last Thursday for the walkout to protest personnel cuts that fostered overcrowding and Congress' decision to authorize 7 per cent pay increases for teachers.

Pat on campaign swing

CHICAGO (UPI)—Pat Nixon, on a campaign swing which takes her to Yellowstone National Park today, said Monday she doubts the Watergate "bugging" incident will hurt the President's re-election chances.

The first lady, speaking out on her husband's behalf on a six-day trip, takes off for Yellowstone (at 10:15 p.m. MDT) today to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the national park system.

Mrs. Nixon arrived in Chicago Monday and plunged into a round of political activities, including a rally at Nixon re-election headquarters here and a "citizenship day" ceremony. She also held a so-called "press coffee" and like most candidates' wives these days, ran into a barrage of tough questions.

Mrs. Nixon, in response to questions about the indictment of seven men, including two ex-White House aides on charges of breaking into and attempting to bug the Democratic National Committee headquarters at the Watergate apartments in Washington, said she did not believe that the incident would have any effect on the election.

"The polls have indicated that," she said. "They know we had no part in it."

As for whether it "concerned" the President, she told reporters, "We don't discuss it. I only know what I read in the newspapers. It doesn't concern me. I think it's been blown completely out of proportion."

Reminded that her daughter, Julie Eisenhower, said she would be willing to die in Vietnam for the Vietnamese people, Mrs. Nixon said, "I didn't see that comment. I certainly agree that I would be willing to die for 17 million people who now are aggressed against and having their freedom taken away."

Mrs. Nixon also was asked whether it "bothered" her that Martha Mitchell, wife of the former attorney general and Nixon's ex-campaign manager, was "manhandled" by Steve King, who now is head of security for the re-election committee.

With some irritation, Mrs. Nixon said, "I don't know anything about that. There again, I only know what I read."

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Applause to you for telling "WORRIED SPITLESS" to keep her guard up regarding late pregnancy.

After a recent surgical procedure, my doctor told me that I would probably not start my menopause for at least two years—that I am still ovulating, and can get pregnant. I am 54 years old!

Sign me,

"BEING VERY, VERY CAREFUL IN ANAHEIM"

DEAR BEING: I received numerous reports from readers insisting that they knew women who had given birth well into their sixties!

Pregnancy possible

I asked my own doctor, John A. Haugen, an expert in the practice of obstetrics and gynecology for some 35 years in Minneapolis, and here is his reply:

"Dr. Nicholson J. Eastman of Johns Hopkins University made an exhaustive study of the records from Johns Hopkins Hospital, New York Lying-In Hospital, and Boston Lying-In Hospital concerning the upper age limits of reproductive life. Studying more than 500,000 records from these well authenticated reports, no pregnancy after the age of 50 was recorded. I must agree with your statement, Abby, that although the chances of becoming pregnant at the age of 50 are greatly reduced, it is by no means impossible, so keep telling the ladies to keep their guards up."

DEAR ABBY: You can hardly pick up a newspaper anymore without reading that some teen-aged girl was raped. Some are even raped and murdered! I am heart-sick for the victims and their families, but, Abby, the way some girls dress nowadays, they are asking for it.

Why in God's name would a fully developed girl go around with a see-thru blouse and no bra, and short shorts or a pair of jeans so tight that if she had a dime in her pocket you could tell whether it was heads or tails? Don't these foolish girls realize they are asking for trouble?

Abby, so many of them read your column, please warn them!

WORRIED FOR GIRLS

DEAR WORRIED: Some girls are naive. But most girls dress provocatively to attract attention—and they do! (So do some men, but the threat of rape is minimal.) I would hope that all women would dress decently and modestly more for their own self-respect than for protection.

DEAR ABBY: I'd like to respond to "Cold Fish in Pompano Beach," who is married to an undemonstrative husband.

From her letter, she is not starving or sleeping on a park bench, or hauling her husband home from the corner pub, dead drunk every night. So he's "cold"? There are probably thousands of women with seven kids who are dead tired who wish their husbands would leave them alone.

I am married to a man who has to be asked for a goodnight kiss. And if I want more than a kiss, I have to ask him for that, too. I also boiled for a couple of years, but it didn't change him a bit. No amount of begging, threatening, or nagging will ever change a man. Then I told myself I was foolish. He comes home every night, hands over every paycheck, and he's good to the kids. So what if he doesn't pinch me at the kitchen sink? He doesn't pinch anybody else, either.

In case you think our life is boring, it isn't. We have many nice friends. We're active in church. I teach Sunday school and my husband is a youth director. We go camping and fishing together. We don't drink or smoke, and we're healthy!

My husband may not be the most passionate lover of the 20th century, but when we are 70, we will still be having fun together when "Cold Fish" is still fishing.

DOESN'T MIND ASKING IN SEATTLE

DEAR DOESN'T: No one has everything. And if you don't miss what you don't have (and you seem to have rationalized it very well), hooray for you. May it ever be thus.

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 9706, L. A., CALIF. 90009 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

FILER — Kathleen Ann Fragapane and William D. Shank were married in 7:30 p.m. candlelight ceremony Aug. 29 at the United Methodist Church, Caldwell.

The Rev. S. Charles Shangler, Walnut Creek, Calif., cousin of the bride's father, performed the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Fragapane, Caldwell, and the bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Shank, Filer.

For her marriage, the bride chose an Alfred-Angelo original gown of white nylon over organza, fashioned with a small stand-up collar, short cap sleeves and a bodice of Achelon lace, embroidered with small pearls and crystal beads.

The dress was fashioned in princess lines with the skirt ending in a short train with a lace insert in the train and two lace insert panels on the skirt front.

Her fingertip white lace mantilla was attached to a small lace cap. Her only ornament was a diamond pendant. She carried a bouquet of blue delphiniums and bachelor buttons, pink carnations, lavender daisy chrysanthemums and white rosebuds with white ribbon streamers.

The church sanctuary was decorated with two large spiral candelabra and bouquets of lavender, white and green gladioli, pink daisy chrysanthemums and white ribbon streamers.

The family pews were marked with white ribbon bows and small nosegays of the same flowers. Ribbon bows of blue, aqua, lavender, green and pink adorned the remaining pews.

Tina Alexanderson was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Betsie Bloch, Leah Street, Jane Buettgenbach and Diane Williams, cousin of the bride. Richard (Ned) Graves, Long Beach, Calif., was best man. Ushers were Randy Shank, Filer, brother of the bridegroom, Ted Cave, Tim Chandler and Stanley Shaff.

Kristen Graham, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. Ring bearer was Eric Dey, Filer, nephew of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Jack Hunt served as organist and Walter Cerveny was violinist. Dick Williams, Boise, uncle of the bride, was soloist.

Mrs. Jack Hunt served as organist and Walter Cerveny was violinist. Dick Williams, Boise, uncle of the bride, was soloist.

Shades of . . .

NEW YORK (UPI)—Cloth window shades are the first line of defense between the furnishings of a room and the destructive rays of the sun. When drawn, shades protect fabrics, furniture and accessories from fading—and prevent actual disintegration as well. When chosen in decorative colors, they also add a charming look to windows, say interior designers.

This couple was honored at a reception in the church parlors immediately following the ceremony.

The serving table was centered with a large four-tier wedding cake topped with a floral arrangement in the bride's color scheme. Two silver candelabras with floral arrangements completed the table decorations.

Mrs. Dick Williams, Boise, aunt of the bride and Mrs. Walter Cerveny served the wedding cake. Gail Purchase, Granada Hills, Calif., and Janet Poloni, Lompoc, Calif., served punch and coffee.

Mrs. George Dey, sister of the bridegroom, had charge of the guest book and gifts were cared for by Ida Cerveny and Tami Taylor, Boise, cousin of the bride.

Out of state guests included the bride's paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Farniglietti, Brooklyn, N.Y.; Mrs. Bertha May and Lillian Nicholson, Rockaway, Ore., great aunts of the bride; Mrs. Judy Reimer, Hastings, Neb., sister of the bridegroom.

Also Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hancox, Contralia, Mo., sister and brother-in-law of the bridegroom; Mr. and Mrs. Tim Stack, Fullerton, Calif., Mr. and Mrs. Gary Shoemaker, Burns, Ore., and John Holland, Van Nuys, Calif.

After a honeymoon spent at a family cabin at McCall and a trip to Canada, the couple resides at 16204 Everett St., Caldwell, where the bride is a junior at College of Idaho and the bridegroom is employed.

The bride is a 1970 graduate of Caldwell High School and the bridegroom is a graduate of Filer High School and a 1972 graduate of College of Idaho.

MR. AND MRS. ARCH WHITELEY

Gathering honors 65th anniversary

TWIN FALLS — A family gathering Sunday honored the 65th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Arch Whiteley, Twin Falls.

The couple was married Sept. 15, 1907, at Shiloh, Ark., and moved to Twin Falls in 1943. Whiteley worked for Northrup King Seed Co. until retiring.

The couple has seven children, Noble, Whiteley, Midge, Moore, Bernice, Bollinger and Marietta James, all Twin Falls; Ruby Head, Eureka Springs, Ark.; Virginia Garton, Pendleton, Ore., and Blanche Pratt, Tooele, Utah.

The four living in Twin Falls were present Sunday for the family dinner at the Colonial Room of the Rogerson.

The couple also has 21 grandchildren and 20 great-grandchildren.

Family members presented Mr. and Mrs. Whiteley with a silver and gold money tree made from sagebrush.

SHOSHONE — Seminary faculty members for the Gooding and Blaine stakes of the LDS Church held their first fall faculty meeting at 7 p.m. Thursday at the Shoshone church.

SHOSHONE — Mr. and Mrs. Bill Perron, Phoenix, Ariz., announce the birth of a son, William Gregory. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. V. F. Perron, Shoshone.

TWIN FALLS — The M.S.S. Club will meet at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the home of Grace Leibl, with Lois Anderson as assistant hostess.

TWIN FALLS — The DAV Auxiliary will have a pot luck dinner at noon Tuesday, Sept. 26, at the home of Mrs. T. M. Knight, 825 Lynwood Blvd. Those attending are asked to bring a covered dish and their own table service.

TWIN FALLS — The DAV will host a dance at 8 p.m. Friday, Sept. 29, at the DAV Hall. The public is welcome to attend.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Board eight of the continental OLYMPIAD fund game is a real dilly.

If South plays at five diamonds, he will have no trouble against any lead except the singleton king of hearts. Against that lead—he will wind up losing the ace of trumps, a spade and a heart ruff but he can try to guard against the heart ruff by playing king and jack of clubs.

If West doesn't cover with the queen, South plays dummy's ace, leads a third club and discards his spade loser. West won't be able to put East in for the heart ruff!

West can foil this plan by covering the jack of clubs with the queen.

If West gets to play in four spades as the result of a lack of enterprise on the part of South, there are several lines of play, depending on the opening lead. Against a trump opening, West can make his contract by guessing the exact club situation. Against a club opening, North and South will probably take two clubs, the ace of hearts and a club ruff before West gains the lead.

If North opens a diamond, West will probably play a heart at trick two. North will take his ace and if North is smart enough to follow up by underleading his club ace he will defeat the contract.

Otherwise, West will be able to establish dummy's heart suit and will wind up making a couple of overtricks if North leaves the clubs entirely alone.

A Lovelier You

FREE TO BE FEMALE

By Mary Sue Miller

It was the Gibson Girl who began it — the now classic, tailored shirt with skirt. The skirt like grandma's swept the floor for propriety's sake. The shirt was a feminine version of male attire, an early Lib gesture.

Just so hair fashions: the Castle bob, the pageboy, the shingle were expressions of feminism for freedom, chic with comfort. Well, those styles are back, but updated by scissors in the hands of skilled professionals, by perms that give the hair an assist needed from body waves to end curls.

Are you with it? Or are you wearing a teased arrangement, that blow to the ecology of the hair? Maybe you're still with the long-hairs, so long it flies in everyone's face. Worse, it is stringy and dusty from today's polluted atmosphere. Leave it to the boys!

Shoulder length is enough already. The pageboy turns under at mid-throat and fluffs a bit or brushes to satin-smoothness. The avant-garde favors a shingle that waves on the nape to cover the hairline. The front is cut in depth from the crown to swoop forward in brushed-out curls or a smooth swirl.

As foretold, barrettes and side combs, more often than not draw back the hair at the temple. Get thee to a hairstylist!

Mini Reviews

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls public-library officials have released mini-reviews for a few of the new books received by the library.

"Wilderness Canoeing," by John W. Malo. To the adventurous soul, wilderness canoeing offers an opportunity to wander and to wonder. Here is a sport that can be enjoyed without brute strength, exacting skills or an intense spirit of competition.

"Better Grades in College With Less Effort," by Kenneth A. Greene. Why go through college the hard way — by trial and error? Learn from recent college grads.

"The Moon by Night," by Joy Packer. The mysterious beauty of the South African wilds haunts the pages of this romantic novel about a young woman's journey to an unknown lover.

"Deschooling Society," by Ivan Illich. Illich is brilliant, inventive and practical. You might think this a dangerous book.

"Ideas of a Party System," by Richard Hofstadter. Work traces the historical processes in thought by which American political leaders slowly edged away from their complete philosophical rejection of party and hesitantly began to embrace a party system.

"The River Witch," by Margorie McIntyre. Men told Cordelia that everything she loved she loved too well. An enthralling new novel by an important new writer.

"The Goddam Gypsy," by Ronald Lee. "Perhaps in the present twilight of civilization, the world still has something to learn from the Gypsies."

"The Terminal Man," by Michael Crichton. This novel provides urgent information on the subject of psychosurgery and makes superb entertainment.

"The Pollenbug Inheritance," by Evelyn Anthony. Against the glittering backdrop of Munich, Paris and London, a beautiful young woman searches for her father and a mysterious inheritance.

"To Reach a Dream," by Nathan C. Heard. A fast-paced novel about Bart Enos, who hits upon a plan to gain wealth, and the plan worked beautifully until the widow's daughter comes home from college.

Teachers name women to posts

TWIN FALLS — Vacancies in the staff of officers of the Delta Kappa Gamma educational sorority have been filled. The new officers include Mrs. Mary Slaughter, Kimberly, first vice president; Evelyn Carey, Twin Falls, corresponding secretary; and Ruth Van Slyke, Twin Falls, parliamentarian.

They will serve with other officers elected earlier including Mrs. Ella Hilverda, Kimberly school counselor, president; Lila MacLeod, Twin Falls, second vice president; Marvis Nelson, Twin Falls, recording secretary, and Thelma Toolson, Twin Falls, treasurer.

When selecting a home, often the last thing a woman looks at and the first thing she later complains about is the comfort system.

It is more important to her and her family than other features to which she may give far greater attention.

Most people spend about 80 percent of their lives within enclosed space — home, office, school, etc., therefore it is important that this environment afford the ultimate in comfort.

Developing an atmosphere of comfort requires the elimination of factors which cause discomfort, including temperature variations, improper humidity, dust and pollen, drafts and odor conditions.

One of the keys to a truly comfortable building is insulation. Proper insulation minimizes heat flow through the ceilings, walls, floors, foundations and doors.

Combined with the correct use of vapor barriers and ventilating fans to control moisture, insulation provides protection from the cold in winter and the heat in the summer.

Comfort conditioned homes require certain minimum standards of insulation and every home should be insulated to meet or surpass these minimums. All insulation is not the same.

Therefore, make sure the insulation you use in your home will do the job you want it to do. Insulating material is measured in "R" values. The "R" value indicates the ability of the material to resist the passage of heat — the higher the "R" value, the greater insulating ability.

When you buy insulation, or have it installed check for the insulating performance recommended for your home. Insulation comes in various types, shapes and sizes so don't be misled into thinking that material with lots of bulk or "inches" is necessarily the best buy.

It is heat resistance, or the "R" value that counts and different types of material have different "R" values.

Careful thought must be given to the amount needed as well as to its correct application.

Use enough insulation. Consider summer as well as winter conditions. Protect insulation from rodents and birds. Some may be pretreated.

Insulate all areas. Keep insulation dry — if it becomes wet it loses the insulation value.

Provide a good vapor barrier. Vapor barriers protect insulation from moisture. One of the most common is plastic film. Some important points to consider when installing vapor barriers are:

Install the vapor barrier on the "warm" side of the insulation only.

Install the vapor barrier between the insulation and the inside wall.

The vapor barrier should be continuous with no holes punched during its installation.

To provide a vapor barrier in an existing home use two or three coats of a good quality alkyl base, semi-gloss paint.

Double glazed or storm windows combined with weather stripping around windows and doors will improve the comfort conditioning efficiency of the home.

The proper ventilation of attics and crawl spaces to prevent damage from heat and excessive moisture should also be given consideration.

Mail questions to: Helen Walker, home service representative, Idaho Power Company, Box 8, Twin Falls, Idaho.

Protective clothing

SHOSHONE — Use color as also make it easier for you to one of the clothing safety watch playing children.

Another safety factor is children," urges Mrs. Jeannette Annet, county extension and booklets. They should be attached where they won't get in the child's way or in the way catches a motorist's eye and bicycle alerts him to the presence of children. Bright colors objects.

Birthday party held

SHOSHONE — Deanna and she treated members of her Thorne, daughter of Mr. and second-grade class at the Mrs. Harrell Thorne, who was 7 Shoshone elementary school, years old Sunday, celebrated Her grandmother, Mrs. Denina Rodeback, assisted with a party.

Fourteen friends joined her at Mrs. Thorne with arrange- home for treats prior to a movie ments.

Spring wedding planned

TWIN FALLS — Mr. and Mrs. Bob W. Stallings, Twin Falls, announce the engagement of their daughter, Robin, to Jim Morris, Estacada, Ore.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Strahan, Estacada. Morris graduated from Estacada High School in 1970 and Miss Stallings attended Twin Falls High School.

The couple plans to be married in the spring.

October plentiful food items listed

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Fresh apples, apple products, rice, turkeys, broiler-fryers, eggs, dry beans and wheat products are listed among October's plentiful foods by USDA officials.

The apple crop is large for the fourth consecutive year. It is expected to total about 150 million cartons. Production in the east and midwest will be about equal to that of 1971, but in the western states, especially Washington — the greatest supplier of fresh apples — production will top last year's.

Large supplies of canned applesauce and apple juice will be available as the result of processing new crop apples, beginning in October. Stocks of canned applesauce already on hand totaled nearly five million cases July 1. There were nearly four million cases of canned apple juice from earlier crop available June 1.

Rice production is estimated at 85,888,000 cwt., about two percent larger than in 1971.

October 1972 new crop turkey marketing estimates are to be 14 per cent more than a year earlier.

Broiler-fryer production in October is expected to be three per cent more than a year ago.

Although egg production in October is expected to be below the high level of a year ago, eggs will continue to be in abundant supply.

Rupert girl guides sub's last voyage

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — Wave Seaman Cathy Nalley, 21, Rupert, was at the helm when the World War II submarine Hays made its last dive.

The ship made its farewell voyage Friday. Today it began the six week process of being stripped before scrapping.

In World War II, the Hays sank eight Japanese ships, survived 160 depth charge attacks and 36 airplane attacks. One of those depth charge attacks came on her last war patrol when the Japanese depth-charged the submarine for 36 hours as it sat in the mud of the bottom of Cam Ranh Bay — a spot which became a U.S. base in the Vietnam war.

Seaman Nalley is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Nalley, Acapulco. She is a 1969 graduate of Minco High School.

Borrowed gear

RUPERT WAVE Kathy Nalley, left, and Amy Schlundt, a WAVE from Omaha, Neb., donned borrowed dungaree shirts and caps for their part in the last dive of the World War II submarine Hays. (UPI)

KEEPING FRESH TOMATOES: Home gardeners have several tricks for keeping tomatoes fresh — up to Thanksgiving Day or even longer.

One trick is to pick your largest, firmest types, just before frost, wrap them individually in newspapers and place them on a shelf in a dry, warm basement.

Some people pick the green tomatoes and place them on a wire tray in a cool cellar. We've tried placing a piece of paper over a tray, then put the green fruit on the paper.

Many gardeners keep green tomatoes a long time after frost by using a weak solution of household bleach (one teaspoon bleach to a quart of water) to disinfect the fruit. First wash the green fruit with the bleach solution, then dry with paper towels. The tomatoes are then packed in fresh newspapers, in bushel baskets and stored in the coolest part of the cellar.

Many still like to pull up a vine full of green tomatoes and hang it in the basement or garage where the fruit stays fresh for days.

There are several tricks for freezing surplus tomatoes. Here's what one reader writes:

"We take firm ripe tomatoes, wash them in cold water, then place them on a tray so they don't touch. Place in the freezer and when they are frozen put them in a plastic bag.

"Then you can take out as many as you want to use at a time. We have kept them as long as two years and they are just like fresh tomatoes. They are not suitable for slicing, but otherwise they are just like out of the garden. Hold them under the hot water faucet and the peel slips off."

NOTE: If any of our friends have more ideas on using tomatoes fresh or frozen, please tell us your ideas so we can pass them along.

HAWTHORN LOSE LEAVES: Many home owners found that their Crataegus or Hawthorn developed pice leaves in spring, then lost them in early summer. This is due to leaf-blight, a fungus is bad on several varieties of hawthorn.

Quite often a new set of leaves will develop in summer, but it's quite a strain on the tree.

CONTROL: Since the fungus winters over on fallen leaves, rake them up and burn. Spray trees in early spring, using a dormant spray (lime-sulfur, one part in eight parts water).

After leaves begin to unfold spray with zineb and repeat at two-week intervals. Meanwhile, the best you can do now is to gather all those fallen leaves and burn them. Do not add to the compost pile.

PROTECT YOUR MUMS: Some garden mums are late bloomers and may be nipped by frosts. If they are late in blooming, your best bet is to plant earlier flowering types because the present day selection is good.

However, if you have some which you want to protect from the frost, try covering them with torn sheets, pieces of burlap or plastic strips. If there's a frost forecast, cover the mums just before dark.

If there's a frost, it may form on the protective material and not on the flowers. If you use plastic sheets, support them with sticks as frost will penetrate the plastic if it touches the plants.

Do not uncover the flowers in the morning until after the frost melts off. Sometimes frosted flowers won't be harmed if they have a chance to thaw before the sun hits them.

CATERPILLARS ON TREES: Does it pay to paint a sticky material on the trunks of trees to prevent worms and caterpillars from crawling up? Sometimes bands of sticky substances painted around the trunks are helpful in trapping some insects, but are useless on those that fly over it.

Some gardeners ring the trees with double-gummed carpet tape to catch a lot of the crawlers. And we have many tell us they use Saran wrap around the trunk to create a slippery surface, making it "impossible" for insects to crawl over them.

These ideas work to a degree and are better than no attempt to control insects. If home gardeners have used them, or other ideas, please write and tell us how effective you think they are.

QUESTION BOX:
QUESTION OF THE WEEK: D. E. of Twin Falls: "Will you please repeat your recipe for making quince seed lotion? Last fall a friend made a bath of it, using your formula. I was one of the lucky ones to get a jar of it, and believe me, it's good. It's soft and silky and makes your hands feel so good, better than any of the commercial lotions on the market."

If you're looking for a good lotion for chapped hands, you'll find none better than quince seed lotion. Here's the recipe: 1/2 cup quince seeds soaked overnight in 1 pint of rain water. Strain and add 1/2 oz. of glycerine, 2 oz. bay rum, 1/2 oz. of perfume.

Not many people bother to use the quince fruit for food. Try this recipe for quince jelly: The whole fruit or just the skins may be used.

Cut in small pieces, being sure to reject the seeds. Cook in enough water to cover, until tender, then strain through jelly bag.

Measure juice and boil 20 minutes. Have ready same amount of sugar heated, add to juice and boil one minute, then turn into heated jelly tumblers. When cool pour melted paraffin on top. Quinces may also be combined with grapes for jelly.

And if you like steamed quinces, wash, core and quarter the fruit. Place in steamer and when tender, serve with cream and a generous amount of sugar.

C. F. of Buhl: "I read an article, saying there is a chemical which can be applied to the grass and it will dissolve mat or thatch. Please tell us what that material is, as we don't want to use a mechanical dethatcher gadget for tearing up our lawn."

There's no practical method for "dissolving" thatch in your lawn. Researchers are experimenting with certain fungi to break down cellulose, lignin and other hard-to-digest materials in dead grass.

Other biologicals such as enzymes, and others too tough to pronounce, have been applied to turf in an attempt to speed up the process of thatch decomposition. Nothing practical is available to the home owner.

Research at the University of Illinois has shown that earthworms, if allowed to live, will largely take care of a thatch problem.

Turn in used aluminum cans to a recycling center.

Gooding school, city recreation needs studied

By PEGGY CHU
Times-News Writer

GOODING — School Supt. James Muscat met with the Gooding City Council Monday night to discuss city and school recreation needs.

Muscat talked about the use of school recreation facilities by the city recreation department and the school athletic department.

He told the council that he is in touch with the Idaho Parks and Recreation Department concerning funds available for lighted ball fields, volleyball and tennis courts.

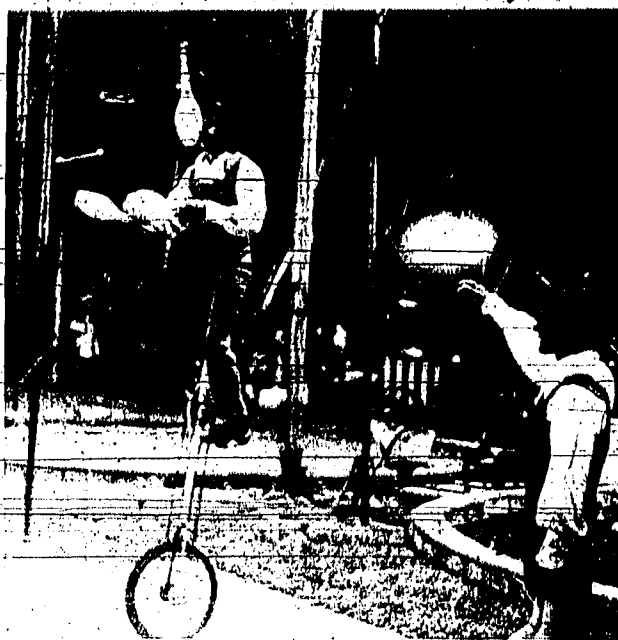

The superintendent said that facilities could be constructed on existing recreation land. He suggested that an advisory committee be formed of members of service clubs, City Council and school representatives.

He said this might give the city and school a better chance of acquiring funds.

"If we can work together, the money may go a lot further," he said.

Mayor Harley Crippen informed the council that he was hopeful for state funding this spring for the city's east park. The mayor instructed recreation councilman, Valdo Gray, to work with Muscat to organize adult use of present school facilities. Gray cited the possibility of a city basketball team.

Craig Muchow, president of the Gooding County International Raceway Co. met with the council to report on money received at the airport race track leased from the city. He said that the raceway has grossed $2,075 from the two races held this fall.

Rain or shine

THE CIRCUS came to Twin Falls Monday night, despite uncooperative weather. Sponsored by two wards of the LDS Church the fare included the unicycle act shown above. The Carson and Barnes live-ring circus was held on the South Park baseball diamond.

Remember Mother Nature

SHOSHONE — Respect for Mother Nature is solicited by Terry Costello, Bureau of Land Management outdoor recreation planner for the Shoshone office.

Costello said "Fall is an enjoyable time of the year, clear days, turning leaves and hunting season, but it must be remembered this beauty can be dimmed by activities of man."

The Shoshone district BLM administers over 2 million acres of public land. The entire area is open for public use and the cooperation of the public is needed to conserve the resources and provide for the greatest benefits, said Costello.

Under the multiple use concept, Costello said, all resources, including wildlife, recreation, range, watershed and timber are given consideration. All of these uses are important to the area. The public lands provide extensive areas for hunting and other recreation in this particular district but these must be coordinated with other land uses, according to Costello.

"For example," Costello said, "a majority of the public domain is used for grazing and fences are necessary to control the livestock. If a gate is left open, problems result."

Cooperation is also solicited in controlling litter problems by the public.

As Johnny Horizon said, "This land is your land, keep it clean."

Costello suggests that all trash be brought out if there are no trash containers available at camp or recreation sites.

Burley woman held on probation break

RUPERT — Mrs. Dorothy Rodgers, Burley, was jailed last week for breaking probation imposed when she fraudulently applied for food stamps in Minidoka County.

The confinement came as a result of Mrs. Rodgers' failure to comply with a probationary order set at an April hearing which stipulated that she assist the custodian of the Cassia County Courthouse in cleaning the building for a total of 196 hours.

She pleaded guilty in the hearing to charges that she had received food stamps in Twin Falls and Cassia counties during March and had fraudulently applied for stamps at the Rupert Department of Public Assistance office in the latter part of the same month.

Magistrate LeRoy Blacker sentenced her to 60 days in the county jail for the misdemeanor, but suspended the sentence and placed her on 30 days probation during which she was to perform the courthouse work.

DPA documents indicate that Mrs. Rodgers received aid in Burley on March 7, and in Twin Falls on March 13. Both DPA offices provided $196 in food coupons for $3 cash.

Twin Falls DPA officials alerted Minidoka Pros. Atty. Donald Chisholm of Mrs. Rodgers' abuse of the program when she applied at the Rupert office March 22.

Mrs. Rodgers listed seven children ranging from 14 to 5 years old on her applications. She gave addresses in Burley, Twin Falls and Rupert.

Jailed on Sept. 14, Mrs. Rodgers was released September 18 when $150 bond was posted.

Land use meet set

SHOSHONE — Uses of land in the Timmerman Hills planning unit, Bureau of Land Management, will be discussed at a meeting at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

The meeting will be at the Lincoln County courthouse.

Residents of Lincoln and Blaine counties are specifically interested in this area according to Michael Green, Bureau of Land Management Public Information officer. Some of the known problems that will be discussed are off-road travel by motorcycles, snowmobiles and four wheel drive vehicles; critical and secondary winter ranges for deer and sage grouse; the possibility of a land exchange problem to block up scattered lands or transfer scattered lands to other ownership.

The power official said that people are not generally in disagreement with efforts to preserve the environment and natural resources, but that they have some common sense reservations about the extremes of the movement.

One possible solution to the current problems includes a national energy council to coordinate government policies and "bring balance between

Oct. 17 set for Cassia bond vote

By LEPAGE LAYTON
Times-News Writer

BURLEY — A resolution to place a $2.06 million bond issue before Cassia County voters for school-building purposes was approved in a meeting last night.

The election is set for Oct. 17 from noon until 8 p.m. The bonds would be 20-year term and carry an interest rate of five and one-half per cent.

The special school board meeting was called to go over plans with representatives of the firm of Richardson and Richardson, architects and engineers, Salt Lake City.

William Richardson, firm representative, attended the meeting and presented preliminary plans for the proposed enlargement of Burley High School.

Should the proposed bond issue be passed, Oakley and Declo high schools would be consolidated with Burley High School to form Cassia High School.

Burley High School would be enlarged by nine or 10 teaching stations to handle up to 1,000 students.

Other building plans include construction of a new elementary school at Declo and remodeling of Declo and Oakley high school buildings to provide modern junior high school facilities.

The board also decided to build a gymnasium at Declo for use by elementary and junior high school students.

Under the proposed changes, about 100 junior high students would be bused from the Burley area to Oakley, and about 70 Burley area junior-high students would be bused to Declo.

The proposed total funds would be divided as follows: $500,000 to remodel and enlarge Burley High School; $65,000 for improvements to Burley Junior High School; $250,000 to renovate and remodel Oakley High School for junior high use; $1.1 million to construct a new Burley elementary school; $125,000 for a multi-learning center at East-Tuval High School; $800,000 to construct an elementary school and gymnasium at Declo, and $80,000 in a contingency fund.

Sessions continue in TF by Idaho Supreme Court

TWIN FALLS — The Idaho Supreme Court continued its week-long session in Twin Falls today.

Three cases were scheduled today including an appeal on a suit involving ground water.

Simon L. Baker and five other farmers in Cassia County brought action against Ore-Ida Foods Inc., in connection with wells drilled in Cassia County, which the plaintiffs alleged reduced the water level in their prior wells.

The Fifth-District Court ruled in favor of the plaintiffs, but Ore-Ida is arguing in their appeal, the court should have divided the available ground water between the developers because all drilled their wells at about the same time.

On the Wednesday court agenda, an appeal from Ketchum city will be heard. The city appealed a Fifth District Court decision against them and in favor of Ready-to-Pour Inc.

The concrete firm brought the action against Ketchum City officials charging they changed a zoning ordinance in order to prohibit the construction of a plant by Ready-to-Pour. The city of Ketchum argues the court has no right to interfere with city zoning regulations.

A labor case involving the Twin Falls Construction Co. and Operating Engineers Local 370 will be heard at 2 p.m. Wednesday.

The court took arguments in three cases under advisement Monday. An appeal was heard Monday from Robert C. Campbell, Twin Falls attorney, who was given a two-year suspension from practice by the Idaho State Bar.

His attorneys argued the suspension was too severe a punishment for the alleged charge of soliciting clients by unusual means.

Arguments on 15 cases will be heard by the high court during the week's session in Twin Falls. The session continues through Friday.

Burley hears protest on Overland parking ban

BURLEY — Several residents appeared at Monday night's Burley City Council meeting to protest the parking ban on 16th Street at the intersection with Overland Avenue.

The parking ban would affect two blocks on each side of the intersection.

Residents protesting said that at present there is little parking space available due to business employees parking in the area. It was suggested that the traffic problem might be alleviated by banning left turns on Overland at traffic light.

The council referred the suggestion to the safety commission.

Mayor Garis Robertson reported that he contacted Boise Cascade concerning charges for treatment of wastes from the box factory. The company offered to pay $250 per month. The council approved the fee, subject to a contract agreement.

Edd Elliott, owner of Elliott's Equipment Co., met with the council to request that Hansen Avenue be widened and that the irrigation ditch be put underground in a pipe along the two blocks the city and the Burley Highway district are working to oil.

The council voted to continue with the project as originally planned, saying the street does not carry enough traffic to warrant the additional expense.

Tom Howarth, owner of Tom's Marina, met with the council to discuss a possible land trade. He wants to trade some property he owns for property owned by the city along the Snake River. The request was tabled until the council can look over the property involved.

An attendant for the Burley Golf Course will be given trailer space and utilities by the city in return for performance of specified duties. The move is an effort to minimize vandalism at the course.

Ken Barry, Burley police chief, reported that the Burley Safety Commission recommended that the city enforce speed limits on streets jointly owned by the city and county. The council approved the recommendation, pending approval by the county commissioners.

Barry also recommended installation of two stop signs, one on Ninth Street and the other on Railroad Avenue.

Ketchum may get bridge

By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News writer

KETCHUM — Ketchum may have a new Warm Springs Bridge within six weeks.

During a City Council meeting Monday night, acting mayor, Vern McClellan, said the council decided to accept an offer from Ralph Thornton, Burley, to construct a $40,000 bridge just north of the present structure.

Right of way engineering and relocation of utility lines will consume about the next two weeks, with bridge construction expected to take about one month, McClellan said.

The acting mayor said the county has offered $10,000 toward the project and about $25,000 will be paid over approximately four to five years through a lease purchase agreement held by a local bank. Payments are expected to be made from the general fund, he said.

"We feel we can trim some costs and come up with some money — so as not to hurt the operation of the city," Mc-Clellan said.

The new two lane span will be 85 feet long, 30 feet wide, and will be constructed of concrete. Right of way has been purchased from Don Hurling for $2 in exchange for the city's promise to screen his adjacent property from the roadway. McClellan said that the hill on the west side of the structure will be reduced to nearly a two per cent grade. Approach and backfill work will be a joint city-county effort, he said.

The old bridge is currently posted with 10-ton load limit.

Northwest power group meets at SV

SUN VALLEY — Today's pressures on the electric utility industry are a "full 180 degrees out of phase" with those considered normal only a few years ago.

That comment was made Monday by Frank M. Warren, president of the Portland Oregon General Electric Co. before the two-day Northwest Electric Light and Power Association Convention at Sun Valley.

However, Warren said, despite new challenges and problems posed by major external forces the state of the industry is good and it is able to respond and accommodate change.

An abundant supply of electric energy was "once unquestioned" as a vital necessity in the Pacific-northwest region, Warren said.

In consequence of public approval, the federal government constructed vast hydro electric projects which it installed at the tie "brought abundance many years ahead of real need," he said.

"But there is now a body of opinion that holds abundance is somehow sinful," the power official said.

Regional residents were also proud because power was provided at a cost generally lower than anywhere else in the country, Warren said. "Today we have the spectacle of witnesses at great hearings, and some regulators, advocating arbitrary increases in the cost of electric service to discourage its use," he said.

The new external pressures, the power official said, were "born in the environmental movement" and "have permeated upward from the body politic to various levels of local, state and federal government."

He said that "strong evidence" exists that the public desires in electric service have been "grievously misjudged." Citing a recent survey in Oregon, Warren said that customer research will show that the "mill-run" oilmen is quite at odds with many elements of the environmentalists restrictive advocacy respecting electric services.

The power official said that people are not generally in disagreement with efforts to preserve the environment and natural resources, but that they have some common sense reservations about the extremes of the movement.

One possible solution to the current problems includes a national energy council to coordinate government policies and "bring balance between opposing demands on our industry," he said.

But Warren stressed that the industry needs time for research — "research and technical development on a scale never before undertaken by the utility industry."

In other business, the delegates elected John H. King, Puget Sound Power and Light Co., as the trade group's new president.

Campbell asked the board to take a definite stand on whether or not they would back Jerry Diehl, high school principal, on his action.

Trustee Jim Keith and Leroy Weigle said they feel the whole matter has been settled at the previous board meeting when Diehl met with the board and asked for support.

The board told him then they would back him as long as he follows the procedure laid out by the board," Weigle said.

"The board will back him 100 per cent as set forth in the policy file and this is exactly what we are going to do. I don't think we should let one student or parent dictate as to what the support him."

policy of this school will be and as I see it, this is only one incident and I don't think we should let it disrupt our whole program. I feel each incident such as this should be handled on an individual basis, following the recommended procedure," Keith said.

Trustee William Kersey voiced his opinion, saying the parents are challenging the authority of the board to investigate a policy to assure discipline and good order in the system.

Kersey said it is his feelings the student was disruptive to good order and discipline in the school and Diehl was right in his action — and he said, "I will support him."

Blaine assessed valuation climbs

HATLEY — Increased valuation of about $5 million over 1971 is reflected in the 1972 Blaine County mill levy schedule.

With current valuation set at about $22.227 million, compared to about $17.65 million for 1971, most agencies either requested the same funding as last year or requested the same mills to produce more funds.

The levy request from the Blaine County School District showed the greatest decrease over 1971, with about 41 mills sought this year, compared to about 47 mills last year. However, because of increased valuation, the 1972 levy will produce a total of about $80,700 over 1971.

In the school district, the taxes on a house valued at $10,000 would decrease over 1971, with about 41 mills sought this year, compared to about 47 mills last year. However, because of increased valuation, the 1972 levy will produce a total of about $80,700 over 1971.

In the school district, the taxes on a house valued at $10,000 would decrease from $83.16 in 1971 to $55.30 this year. Of the increase, about $45,000 is reserved for the ten-mill plant facilities fund, which produced about $222,300 this year, compared to about $176,600 last year. Funds from the fixed levy, passed in 1971 for five years, are to be held in trust toward a new high school.

School funding requests and mill changes over 1971 are as follows:

Maintenance and operation, $570,000 in 1972 compared to about $529,000 in 1971, about a five mill drop. Bond interest and retirement, about $108,000 in 1972 compared to about $82,000, an about .2 mill increase.

Emergency fund, about $13,400 in 1972 compared to about $45,000 in 1971, a two mill drop.

The county tax schedule showed about a one mill increase over last year. Included in the raise is an about one mill increase for the general school fund—a total of about 8.26 mills this year—producing about $184,000 this year compared to about $130,000 last year.

The appraisal program increased about .6 mill, with a total levy of about one mill, resulting in about $23,000 this year. Two new county funds, with each receiving about .5 mills, were created this year. About $12,000 will go to public health and about $11,000 to the charity and indigent fund.

Hayley millage allocation was decreased from 39 mills in 1971 to about 34 mills this year. As a result, funding remained about constant at $45,500.

An almost five mill bond fund was eliminated from the city's request this year, with the remaining general and street fund requests staying about the same.

A house valued at $10,000 in Hatley, taxed at $52.41 in 1971, would be taxed $45.86 this year.

Bellevue's request was the same as last year—25.3 mills. Ketchum's request was reduced about four mills to a total of about 30.8 mills in 1972. However, funding from the levy will be about $178,800 this year, compared to about $125,000 last year.

The mill levy for Sun Valley dropped about six mills over 1971, to a 1972 figure of about 19.9 mills. As a result, this year's funding decreased about $400.

As a result of the decrease, property valued at $10,000 in Sun Valley which was taxed at $33.60 in 1971 would be taxed only $25.63 this year.

However, the request by the Sun Valley Water and Sewer District increased about six mills—to a total of about 13.2 mills. Funds from the new levy will be about $69,000, compared to about $30,000 in 1971.

Dying Chester Arthur hid illness' evidence

TARRYTOWN, N.Y. (UPI)—Chester A. Arthur, 21st president of the United States, learned after he took office he was dying from a kidney disease but successfully hid the fact not only from his time but history.

Arthur's illness, Bright's disease, from which he died Nov. 10, 1886, a little more than a year after leaving office, was disclosed by Dr. Thomas C. Reeves, an associate professor of history at the University of Wisconsin.

In a report, Reeves also said Arthur's failure to win the Republican nomination in 1884 was traceable to his illness and the fact he knew he was a dying man and not, as history indicates, his political obstinacy.

Arthur, in fact, confided to a friend sworn to secrecy about the disease and said he feared death within a year. He did not actively seek the nomination, Reeves said, because he did not think he would live to finish the term if elected.

Reeves, who rescued wooden fruit boxes full of documents relating to Arthur from the San Francisco apartment of a grandson, also revealed an error of one full year in the date of the man's birth.

The documents showed Arthur was born Oct. 5, 1829 and not Oct. 5, 1830 as in textbooks and even on his gravestone in Albany, N.Y.

Reeves and Dr. Kenneth E. Davidson, chairman of the department of American culture at Heidelberg College in Ohio, disclosed the findings on Arthur to a conference of historians. The Sleepy Hollow Restorations, a historical group here which sponsored the conference, released the report Monday.

Arthur succeeded his assassinated predecessor, James A. Garfield, Sept. 20, 1881. The man who shot and killed Garfield said he had done it to make Arthur the president, making Arthur, Reeves said, "One of the most despised political figures in American history."

During his first years in office, the report added, Arthur was considered a political boss and "hard-boiled, cynical politician."

But Reeves added, "Arthur was a better President than anyone expected him to be." Knowledge about Arthur has been sketchy, Reeves pointed out because the day before he died Arthur ordered most of his personal papers burned.

Reeves obtained his documents from the apartment of his grandson, Chester A. Arthur III, who died in 1971 in San Francisco. He found the papers in Arthur's apartment packed in wooden fruit crates.

Special attorney proposed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Criticizing both political parties, activist John Banzhaf III filed application Monday for appointment of a special prosecutor in the alleged bugging of the Democratic National Committee.

Banzhaf, a George Washington University law professor best known for his anti-smoking crusade, filed a 28-page application in U.S. District Court for an impartial, unbiased prosecutor.

Banzhaf charged later in a statement that the Democrats themselves should have filed the application but they "would rather have the issue than the special prosecutor."

"Although he has called for it repeatedly in public he has refused to take the one step which might possibly lead to the appointment," Banzhaf said in criticizing former Democratic National Chairman Lawrence J. O'Brien.

"It appears to me that Mr. O'Brien is contented in taking one approach in public and another in private."

Banzhaf also criticized the Justice Department, which has been handling the investigation, for demonstrating "the evil of the conflict of interest."

Banzhaf said Clark MacGregor, President Nixon's campaign manager, announced Friday that the Justice Department would publish a further report about the investigation.

Rise seen for '73 Social Security

TWIN FALLS — Social Security benefit payments to residents of Idaho will be increased by $30 million in 1973. John K. Carlton, Social Security district manager, said today that the increase is a result of the 20 per cent benefit increase passed by congress and signed into law by President Nixon on July 1.

The first checks to include the 20 per cent increase will reach beneficiaries in Idaho on Oct. 3, the regular date for the delivery of checks covering benefits for September, the month for which the increase is effective.

Carlton said that beneficiaries need not take any action because the increase will come to them automatically.

The average retired worker in Idaho who is now receiving a benefit of about $128.40 a month will get about $153.60 per month beginning with his October 3 check, Carlton said.

His wife, if she too is receiving benefits, will also have her payment increased by 20 per cent.

Teacher award nominees sought

BOISE — School superintendents have been invited to make recommendations for the annual national teacher-of-the-year award program.

D. F. Engelking, state superintendent of public instruction, invited the administrators to nominate a teacher from their local districts for Idaho Teacher of the Year honors. The teacher chosen will represent Idaho in the national contest. "Any classroom teacher, pre-kindergarten through grade 12, may be considered in this search for those who exemplify the finest in the profession and represent good teachers everywhere," Engelking said in a memorandum.

Nominations must be made before Oct. 2 and finalists will be selected Oct. 10. The winner will be announced in early November.

Merry Pet

Linda Merry, DVM

Question: We have a 1 1/2 year old small dog that barks at everyone that goes by. We have tried scolding him, splashing water on him, but nothing helps. Could you tell us what might work? He is a very loving dog and never hurts anyone.

Answer: People talk — dogs bark. Barking is a natural reaction but it should be controllable. It's commendable for your dog to warn you when a stranger approaches the house or something unusual happens, but once you tell him it's okay, he should stop pronto.

Shy dogs bark more for self-assurance than anything else. They need firm handling before the neighbors need our help. It is the cocky little guy, full of his own importance and showing off, who must be scolded and dealt with in a much tougher way.

It would be better if you'd tackled the problem earlier but even older dogs can learn that silence has some merit. Next time Dog starts a tirade, put your hands around his muzzle; hold his jaws shut, and say "No!" firmly. If he keeps it up thump his nose and speak more sharply.

When he has on his leash you can use it to give him a hard jerk or flip the handle across his nose to impress him that you aren't woofing. If he's corrected EVERYTIME he barks, and if the corrections are sufficiently severe, he'll soon get the idea. Dogs off leash and loose in the yard are more inclined to set up a howl. In that case, walk up to him, and taking him quietly but firmly by the collar, shake him hard. Tell him to "Stop that racket." If he won't heed warnings or the shaking, a good spanking is in order.

Another method consists of sitting in a room with some amuse (short pieces of chain, several tin cans tied together, a magazine, old book, or even the dog's leash) nearby. When the dog barks, the article is thrown on the floor near him. Dogs dislike loud noises and when they realize their barking is the cause of it they soon learn to be quiet.

Whatever method you use, remember to be consistent and persistent. Good luck.

Agents unite

SALEM, Ore. — Incorporation of Amalgamated Growers, Inc., was announced today by Walter Collett, chairman of the organization.

He said the agency will mesh bargaining activities of Oregon-Washington Growers Association, Salem; Northwest Farm Crops Association, Mt. Vernon, Wash., and Central Washington Farm Crops Association, Ellensburg.

More than 1500 growers of processing vegetables and small fruits will be represented in negotiations with national and regional processing firms.

rates for major crops and how much might come in the form of increased direct federal payments to farmers.

Increases in price support rates for crops would have the effect of boosting some farm market prices, and eventually could raise retail prices unless middlemen's margins were cut. But boosts in direct federal payments to farmers would not affect crop prices and could be made without affecting retail food prices.

McGovern's on-the-record statement on the subject, delivered in a speech at Vernon Center, Minn., last week, said:

"First, I will move to target farm income with a long overdue boost, using the tool already available to assure the farmers a fair return. The Department of Agriculture has the authority to raise farm income to 90 per cent of parity. I intend to use that authority."

McGovern, it will be noted, used the phrase

"farm income" in his speech and did not speak specifically of raising crop support loan rates or crop market prices to 90 per cent of parity from the present 75 per cent. Stein, in his speech, had based his estimate of a 10 per cent retail food price boost on the assumption that McGovern was committed to raising "farm prices" to 90 per cent of parity.

One long-time McGovern farm adviser said that given the candidate's record and known preferences in farm policy, it was fair to conclude that at least part of his promised action would involve higher support loans and perhaps tend to some upward pressure on food prices. But the "mix" also could include some use of payments to avoid hurting consumers, and McGovern has not defined what combination would be used, the source said.

Administration officials, meanwhile, have made apparently conflicting statements on food-price policies in recent days.

Wheat sales praised

WASHINGTON, D.C. — John Scott, master of the National Grange, praised the Nixon administration Monday for the part it played in the recent grain sale to the Soviet Union.

He said, "I would hate to think where grain prices would be if it were not for the huge sale of wheat and feed grains to the Soviets. With near record crops, this year the market would really be at the bottom of the barrel without the $1-billion sale."

Scott said that as of July 1972 it was anticipated the U.S.

would have large carryovers of wheat and most feed grains. Also the 1973 wheat program announced early in the summer was designed for less wheat production in 1973 because of the huge surpluses being estimated by the Department of Agriculture.

When the '73 wheat program was announced, Scott has expressed hope that future exports of grains to Russia and other foreign countries would take the pressure off the domestic market, reduce carry-over and bring about higher market prices for U.S. farmers.

Traders seen reaping profits, NFU charges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Farmers Union charged today that private traders selling U.S. wheat to Russia this summer conceivably could have reaped as much as $100 million in windfall profits by careful timing of their purchases and export subsidy applications.

But Weldon Barton, assistant NFU legislative director, added in testimony prepared for a House Agriculture subcommittee hearing that no one can be sure what actually happened until the Agriculture Department releases still-confidential specific daily data on wheat subsidy applications by individual export firms.

Barton also charged the administration, which raised export subsidies through July and much of August in order to keep export prices from rising, had, in effect, underwritten bargain prices for Russia. The subsidies enabled exporters to offset hikes in domestic market prices.

"Given the scarcity of wheat and the fact that other countries had little available for export," it appears we could have sold the same amount of U.S. wheat at much higher prices," the NFU spokesman said.

Barton said the massive sales to Russia were good news for most U.S. farmers. But he called for passage of pending bills to compensate a minority of wheat farmers, who sold before they knew Soviet orders would drive prices up, for cuts they will have to take in wheat support payments.

The House subcommittee, headed by Rep. Graham Purcell, D-Tex., is examining the way the government handled arrangements for recent sales to Russia of an estimated $1 billion in farm products, including about a fourth of the 1972 wheat crop.

In another phase of its investigation into the complex web of events surrounding the wheat sales, the panel today was scheduled to hear Charles W. Rence, an Agriculture Department official ordered by superiors to telephone wheat export firms Aug. 24 with word of a change in export subsidy policy.

Officials have said the effective dates of their actions were timed so recipients of the calls could not profit—either by rushing through, last-minute export sales or by trading in commodity futures — even though the policy change was not publicly announced until Aug. 25.

Barton outlined several theoretical ways in which export firms could have realized "windfall" profits from the wheat deals, including one based on the fact that Agriculture Department rules do not match wheat export subsidies directly to the price at which a private trader buys grain for export.

For example, Barton said, a company could have bought 50 million bushels of wheat Aug. 1 when the domestic price was $1.80 and the export subsidy was 10 cents. It could then have waited to apply for subsidy until Aug. 20 when the export subsidy had been raised to 47 cents to keep pace with rising domestic prices.

Assistant Agriculture Secretary Carroll G. Brumby, testifying before the subcommittee last week, noted that the system of "booking" daily subsidy applications without regard to when wheat is actually purchased was adopted in the 1960's. The regulations were issued by Democratic officials, he said.

Hereford show set for Kaycee arena

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Final plans have been made for the 1972 Paul Swaffar Register of Merit Hereford Show to be held during the American Royal here in Kansas City.

Directors of the American Hereford Association said the show will be dedicated to Paul Swaffar, former executive secretary of the AHA, who is now retired and ranching near McLaughlin, Kan.

The Hereford show is expected to attract more than 250 head of cattle for the ROM competition to be judged by Gibbs Rehm, manager of the Selkirk Hereford Ranch, Sandpoint, Idaho.

More than $15,000 in premiums and prize money will be distributed to show winners. Activities of the Paul Swaffar ROM Show begin at 2:30 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 15, with the pen bull show at the Stockyards Auction Center. Recent action by the AHA board makes it possible to earn ROM points for sires represented in the pen bull division of the Royal. The first prize pen of bulls in each age class will earn two points for each sire represented in the pen, and the second-prize entries will each earn one point for his sire.

Late rally Tets Skins topple Vikings 24-21

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI)—Larry Brown's three-yard scoring plunge capped a fourth quarter rally, and special team man Bill Mallinck accounted for two other Washington Redskins touchdowns with a blocked punt and fumble recovery in a 24-21 upset win over the Minnesota Vikings Monday night.

Brown's plunge with 12:52 remaining climaxed the first sustained Washington drive of the night and gave the Redskins a 17-14 lead.

Mallinck then set up the winning touchdown by falling on Clinton Jones' fumble on the Minnesota 18 only 18 seconds later.

Charley Harraway then scored from nine yards out with 11:27 left to give Washington a 24-14 lead in the nationally televised contest between the two teams with the oldest average ages in professional football. It was the opening game for both teams.

The Vikings scored with 1:10 left in the game on a four-yard Fran Tarkenton to Bill Brown pass to complete an 85-yard desperation drive but Washington ran out the clock.

The Vikings had rallied from early troubles when flanker John Gilliam made a twisting, one-handed catch of Tarkenton's 11-yard pass in the corner of the end zone for a 14-10 third quarter lead.

Tarkenton, starting his first regular season game since returning to the Vikings from the New York Giants, completed 18 of 32 passes for 233 yards and two touchdowns. The Vikings controlled the ball for 44 of 69 plays from scrimmage in the first half, and ran up 222 offensive yards to 97 for Washington, but found themselves trailing 10-7.

Mallinck blocked Mike Gscheld's punt at the Minnesota 16 only 2:32 into the game, picked it up and ran into the end zone for a touchdown.

After Curt Knight missed a 49-yard field goal attempt, Minnesota drove 94 yards in 17 plays including three key Tarkenton passes to veteran running back Bill Brown deep in Redskins territory to tie it at 7-7. Jones plunged over from the one-yard line for the score at 12:35 of the second quarter.

The Redskins took the lead on a 30-yard Knight field goal with 1:02 left in the half.

Olympic swimming standout is eyeing Hollywood career

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI)—Olympic swim star Mark Spitz, now eyeing a show business career, has retained the same theatrical agency that signed Johnny Weissmuller to his first "Tarzan" role in 1932, it was learned Monday.

Agent Norman Brokaw confirmed that Spitz, who won a record seven gold medals in Munich, is now working through the William Morris Agency of Beverly Hills, one of the largest theatrical agencies in the world.

"We'll be handling all negotiations for him in all areas of the business — motion pictures, TV shows, commercials, product endorsements," Brokaw said in a telephone interview.

Although Weissmuller, also an Olympic swimming champion, got his start in show business through the agency.

Brokaw said Spitz "definitely does not want to become another Tarzan."

Asked what type of role Spitz was considering, Brokaw said: "I can't tell you yet, but he'll be a major star. I think he'll achieve stardom in anything he tries."

"When he became the first and only person to win seven gold medals, he had 65 million people watching him, and with the satellite pictures, he not only became a national hero but a worldwide hero because of his accomplishments," he said.

"He (Spitz) is a very bright, articulate gentleman. Any field he tries he will come out as a champ."

When asked if he agreed with the estimate of Spitz' swimming coach, Sherm Chavoor, that Spitz is worth $5 million in potential contracts, Brokaw said, "It's in the ballpark, but when you have a thoroughbred like Spitz it can go far in excess of that."

He said Spitz' debut in show business will be on the Bob Hope show that will be aired Oct. 5. Brokaw said Spitz had not yet made any commitments beyond the television appearance.

Among the personalities handled by the William Morris Agency are Sophia Loren, Bill Cosby, Danny Thomas, Jack Lemmon and Andy Griffith, according to Brokaw.

He said Spitz has been swamped by more than 3,000 contract offers and letters asking for personal appearances.

"The big guys have something in mind," Spitz said in a recent interview. "They see dollar signs in me, so I guess that's why they're interested."

Cavaliers hoping for better season with Wilkens, Carr

CLEVELAND (UPI)—The signing of Lenny Wilkens who "will have to play here or sit out the season," a healthy Austin Carr and the presence of Rick Roberson are three big keys which can open numerous doors for the Cleveland Cavaliers this season — their third in the National Basketball Association.

Coach Bill Fitch was greeted last week by 10 veterans, three rookies and two newcomers for workouts at Lakeland Community College in nearby Mentor.

"I'm not setting any goals," said Fitch, who last season had the misfortune of guiding his squad to a 23-59 record, not as bad as the dismal 15-67 mark set by the expansion club its first year in the league.

"We have gained maturity, we have more experience and if everybody stays healthy it could be an interesting season," he said.

But for Fitch, the main problem now is getting healthy players. It's Wilkens, who was traded to the Cavs by the Seattle SuperSonics along with Barry Clemens for guard Butch Beard.

The 1-year NBA veteran, who could be the "quarterback" sorely needed by the club, wants to play with a west coast team, preferably the Portland Trail Blazers, and efforts to get him to camp have failed.

"As far as I'm concerned, Lenny will have to play here or sit out the season," Fitch said. "But one thing is for sure. And that is that I don't have to play against him."

One man Fitch won't have trouble getting on the court this season is Carr, who "My goal now is to play every game," said the 6-foot-4, former Notre Dame All-American guard who had bone graft surgery last May 31. "If I get about 20 games under my belt and I stay healthy, then maybe I can think about setting other goals."

The only Cavalier to set a record last season was the 6-foot-9 Roberson, who will share the duties at center with Walt Wesley, a 6-foot-9 addition who came here from the Los Angeles Lakers one day before the 1971-72 campaign.

Roberson was the first man on the team to average in double figures in both scoring and rebounding, picking off 801 from the boards while adding a 13.1 scoring mark. But he could have some competition this season from 6-foot-8 forward Dwight Davis, the Cavs' No. 1 draft choice who blocked 119 shots in his final season at Houston, averaging 24.4 points per game.

"Davis should have a good year," said a smiling Fitch. "He had an excellent rookie camp and we will break him in slowly."

Competition for the backcourt jobs could prove to be interesting with Jimmy Clerk, morn; Bobby Washington, John Warren and rookie Brian Mahoney shooting for a spot on the team.

400 attend races at Gooding strip

GOODING — Over 400 drag racing fans attended the second race at Gooding County International raceway Sunday with 37 drivers meeting in strict competition on the newly opened drag strip four miles west of Gooding.

The action was all bracket racing with a total of seven brackets. Before elimination began the Gooding fire department's 1922 model T fire engine entertained the crowd with several runs down the strip.

Bracket one was eliminated before the final competition when Jerry Lee broke a clutch during the time trials. Gooding's Keith Wilkins was unable to qualify due to late arrival.

In Bracket two, Daddy's Playmate, a 1967 Mercury Cyclone, owned by Dale Sorenson, Twin Falls, won with an E. T. of 15.24 against Mick Barnes. In bracket three Jack Bray, Shoshone, driving a 760

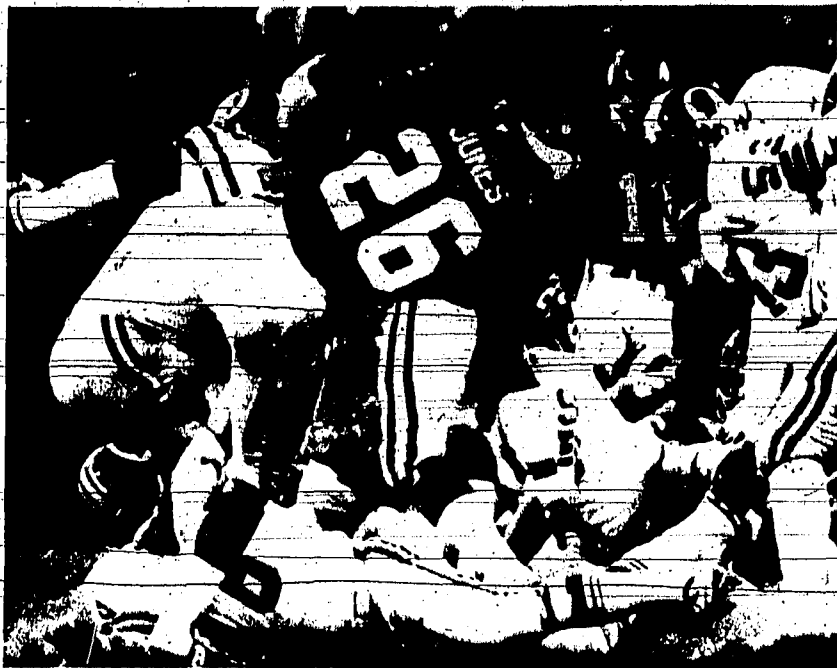

Honda, took the win from Walt Schoolcraft with a 14.72 time. In bracket four Gary Malone, Twin Falls, defeated Phillip Arnold, Kimberly with an E. T. of 19.16.

Mike Emmingham, Boise, won bracket five with a 22.80 time over Kent Wenstrum. With an E. T. of 18.70 Tony Barney defeated Ralph Compher, Buhl, in the sixth bracket. In the seventh bracket, Mike Buel defeated Rusty Tews.

National hunting, fish day announced

Saturday, September 23, 1972, marks the debut of an annual event in which every conscientious outdoorsman in the state should — yes, must — take an active part. President Richard M. Nixon signed an executive order setting September 23 aside as a national "day" and Governor Cecil D. Andrus issued a proclamation urging all citizens to acquaint themselves with their heritage in these great natural resources and the environment of Idaho.

They are urged especially to give recognition to those citizens who have lent their support and dedicated a good portion of their lives to the proper management of these renewable resources for future generations.

Most of the other 50 states throughout the nation also have proclaimed this day as a state as well as a national holiday. The states have done this, because there is something unusual about this particular "day."

For example, Clyde Ormond comments in his column, "Roamin' East Idaho," "This day has been set aside, not for hunting and fishing, but to make the public aware of just what an important part of the hunters and fishermen of this nation have done towards conservation, the holding down of pollution, and the conservation of wildlife."

Ormond tells the story of the 70-year-old conservation and clean-up pollution movement by America's hunters and fishermen in his column appearing in the Idaho Falls Post Register. "They fought for cleaner streams; the stoppage of wastes of various types being dumped into the waters, and the cleaning up of wildlife habitat."

"Generally this fell on deaf ears. So the hunters and fishermen had to form their own organizations, and finance their own efforts, to get the job done. The results we've gotten so far are based on this effect," Ormond avers.

"Where the Congress of 70 or so years ago wouldn't listen to the sportsmen, largely because they figured there would be more votes from those who'd exploit the land than from the relatively few who wanted to save it, the Congresses of today have been gradually forced to listen; and of course they now want to hog the credit for the conservation and anti-pollution movement."

"The rare thing in all this is the fact that the hunters and fishermen have not asked for a dime of public money to accomplish this," Ormond continues. "The popular procedure for getting anything done in a big way in this country is simple: Get a big governmental appropriation, tax the general public to pay for it, let a majority of the money go for administrative salaries and expenses, and have a mild trickle of all the dough get back to you."

"But the hunters and fishermen of America have got the conservation cause well underway — with their own money. Here's how:

Hunting dates are announced

ROISE (UPI) — Outdoor sportsmen who have trouble making up their minds how to spend spare time now must decide between upland bird and big-game animal hunting, as well as fine fishing this fall.

The Idaho Fish and Game Department reminds hunters September and October brings the opening day of many hunts after the Sept. 1 kickoff for dove and rabbit hunters.

Other seasons now open include general archery hunting for deer, elk, bear and mountain goat, controlled hunts for trophy bighorn sheep, mountain goat, antlered moose, back country general elk and deer seasons, chukars, huns, quail and grouse nearly statewide.

Sept. 23 controlled antelope hunts and general hunting for wild turkeys begin.

Offer season openings include:

—Oct. 7 — A whole tier of game unit areas surrounding the back country opens to elk and deer hunting.

—Oct. 7 — Statewide duck and goose season opens.

—Oct. 14 — Pheasant season opens in the 10 panhandle counties.

—Oct. 21 — Deer season opens in many southern and southeastern areas.

—Oct. 28 — Southern Idaho pheasant hunting season opens.

make them aware of this, and to induce them to at least make a vote of thanks to those who deserve it."

Thank you, Clyde, for a good solid column.

But the full benefit of this day cannot be achieved by proclamation alone, or even with few good columns and editorials carried by the state's public media. The real results will come through personal contact between sportsmen and the general public, between land management representatives and the public, between Fish and Game Department personnel and the public. To do this, every conservation club in the state, as well as appropriate state and federal land and renewable wildlife resource agencies should hold "open house" on September 23.

It's the responsibility of these club and agency personnel to lead the public in a dedication to the conservation and respectful use of the state and national wildlife and natural resources. The public must be shown, neighborhood by neighborhood, what hunters and fishermen are doing for conservation — and have done for the past 70 years.

Open house at a local sportsman's club, or via a "show-me" trip or at a regional or state Fish and Game Department office, fish hatchery of what-ever will give unprecedented opportunities for constructive grass-roots action.

Ormond concludes that "the wildlife which the rest of the public also enjoys hasn't cost them a dime. And National Hunting and Fishing Day is to

New York blanks Pittsburgh 1-0

NEW YORK (UPI)—Duffy Dyer's ninth-inning single to left field scored Rusty Staub to give the Mets a 1-0 victory Monday night and stall the Pittsburgh Pirates' drive for the National League East pennant.

John Matlack outpitched Nelson Briles to earn his 13th victory of the season. It was the second time this year that Matlack had beaten Briles by a 1-0 score.

Matlack pitched a five-hitter, allowing only one Pirate runner to reach second base. With two out in the ninth, Riehle Hebner singled to right and moved to second on a bloop single to left by Bob Robertson. Matlack induced Gene Alley to hit an infield fly for the third out.

Bench leads Reds past Giants 2-0

CINCINNATI (UPI)—Johnny Bench drove in one run with his 34th homer of the season and bunted home a second run with a single leading the Cincinnati Reds to a 2-0 victory over the San Francisco Giants Monday night.

The victory was the eighth of the season against seven losses for Jim McGlothlin who was relieved by Clay Carroll after Ken Henderson led off the ninth with a double. Carroll received credit for his 50th save.

The Reds' victory reduced their "magic number" to five and gave them a 7 1/2 game lead over second-place Houston in the National League West.

The loser was Jim Barr who yielded both earned runs while suffering his ninth loss against six victories.

OIL HELPS IDAHO SCHOOLS MAKE THE GRADE

Our schools use hundreds of things that are made from oil: desk tops and fiberglass seats, educational films, tapes and records, paint, ink, even the erasers on pencils.

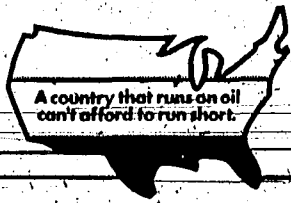

But most of all, schools use energy. For heat, light and transportation, 75% of all our energy comes from oil and natural gas (including 40% of our electricity).

But today, we're using these petroleum fuels faster than we are finding them. That's why America faces an Energy Gap.

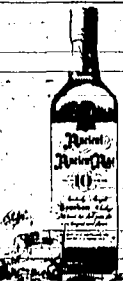

We're your local oil companies. Working to bridge the growing Energy Gap. Because it's as simple as A-B-C... a country that runs on oil can't afford to run short.

Coach says loss due to offense

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Cleveland Browns head coach Nick Skorich Monday blamed an offense that could not mount an attack for his club's 26-10 loss Sunday to the Green Bay Packers.

"Our offense, including the receivers and the running backs, didn't muster up much of an attack," said Skorich in his first Monday news conference of the season. "We were always fighting an uphill battle. We had a very miserable 2.6 yards per carry on the ground. You've got to have 4.0 or better."

Skorich, who said that "it's pretty hard to live on passing alone," said he would mix the pass and run attack as often as he could. But he would not commit himself to naming veteran Bill Nelson or second-year man Mike Phipps to head the lineup for the remaining 13 games of the campaign.

"As soon as we can establish that we have a quarterback that can take over command, we will continue to use both Nelson and Phipps," said Skorich. "Phipps has earned a better shot at the job, but when we get a man who can have a pattern of control he'll be the one we stay with."

The Browns, 6-7 thus far this season including exhibition contests, take on the Eagles at Philadelphia Sunday.

Success of Sooner offense depends on two quarterbacks

NORMAN, Okla. (UPI)—The success of No. 1-ranked Oklahoma's Wishbone offense this season will require the diverse talents of both senior quarterback Dave Robertson and freshman Kerry Jackson, Sooner Coach Chuck Fairbanks said Monday.

"What I'm really hoping for is that we don't get involved with comparisons of our quarterbacks," Fairbanks said. "I hope our fans don't get involved with this. We're going to need both these boys to win this fall."

"There are certain things one will do better than the other," Fairbanks added. "I was pleased with both in the first ball game, and believe they both will get better as we go along."

Robertson, heir apparent to the vacancy created by Jack Mildren's graduation, completed five of five passes for 155 yards and one touchdown in Saturday's 49-0 flogging of Utah State. Jackson, a 187-pounder from Galveston, Tex., was the game's leading rusher with 109 yards on 10 attempts and hit three of 13 passes for 50 yards. The 10 passes thrown Saturday, while a comparative handful for many of the more aerial-minded teams, were a lot more than observers of the Sooner attack have come to expect.

"We had better balance between running and passing than we've had the last couple of years," Fairbanks said. "Our offensive line gave us the best pass protection that we've had since I've been at Oklahoma."

Fairbanks said there was no pre-game plan for the increased emphasis on passing.

"We didn't have any plan for a certain number of passes; we never do that, but their secondary was so committed to the rush that we had to take advantage of it," he said.

The Sooner coach said senior fullback Leon Crosswhite, who sat out most of Saturday's opener with a shoulder injury, should be ready to play in time for the Texas game Oct. 14. He originally feared Crosswhite, a three-year starter, might be lost for the season. Fairbanks said he used more players Saturday than he ever has, but much of the substitution was due to the mid-90s heat. Five freshmen got into the game.

Freshman halfback Joe Washington was runnerup for rushing honors with 86 yards on 12 carries and All-America Greg Pruitt was third with 60 yards on 15 carries.

"Our older players were more consistent in their performance," Fairbanks said. "The younger players made a few fine plays, demonstrating they had talent. Their execution was not as sound as we might hope, but not too bad for a first ball game."

Fairbanks was generally pleased with the Sooner defense, particularly the pass defense. But he and assistant coach Joe Granato, who scouted Oregon last week, said Oklahoma's pass rush and coverage will have to be especially sharp this Saturday against Duck quarterback Dan Fouts.

Trevino advances on list

NEW YORK (UPI)—Lee Trevino is closing in on his second successive $200,000 golf season.

Trevino, picking up $30,000 for victory in the St. Louis Classic over the weekend, boosted his year's money-winning total to $192,168, second on the overall list to Jack Nicklaus' $280,482.

Nicklaus passed up the St. Louis event, but George Archer collected $1,434 in a tie for 19th. The check-put Archer at $140,102 for the year and maintained his hold on third place in the money race.

Idaho coach lists winners

MOSCOW (UPI)—University of Idaho head football coach Don Robbins announced Monday the winners of the weekly outstanding performance awards following the Vandals' season-opening 17-14 victory over Ohio here Saturday.

Safety Steve Hunter received the defense award; tight end Darrell Burchfield the offensive award; and fullback Bernie Rembert the Vandal award.

Hunter punted six times for 41.3 yard average, intercepted two passes, recovered a fumble and made 11 tackles.

Burchfield caught three passes for 33 yards, including a pass that set up one of the Vandals' two touchdowns.

Rembert averaged 4.8 yards per carry, gained 90 yards and scored a touchdown.

Packers shift three players

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI)—The Green Bay Packers announced Monday they had shifted three players around on their roster before Sunday's game against the Cleveland Browns.

The team put Sam Dickerson, a wide receiver who had been on the taxi squad, on waivers and moved wide receiver Jon Stagers, who had been on the active list, to the taxi squad.

To fill the spot on the active roster the Packers put running back Dave Kopay, a runner obtained last week from the Oakland Raiders, on the active list.

Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market held onto a small gain Tuesday in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow-Jones Industrial average was up 1.29 at 940.65. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index was ahead 0.22 at 108.83. Advances led declines, 701 to 557, among the 1,657 issues crossing the tape. The three-hour turnover totaled 8,720,000 shares, up from the 6,350,000 traded during the same period Monday.

American Electric Power was the most active issue, off 1/4 at 27 1/4 on 422,100 shares, including a block of 385,000 shares at 20 1/4, off 1/4.

American Telephone & Telegraph, which reported fourth quarter earnings of $1.10 a share, compared with 95 cents the year before, was second, up 1/4 at 40 1/4 on 282,000 shares. American Medical International was third, off 1/4 at 42 1/4 on 217,400 shares, including a block of 100,000 shares at 42 1/4, off 1/4.

Airlines were higher, National Airlines gained 1 1/4. It has reached an agreement with its machinists' union on a new contract.

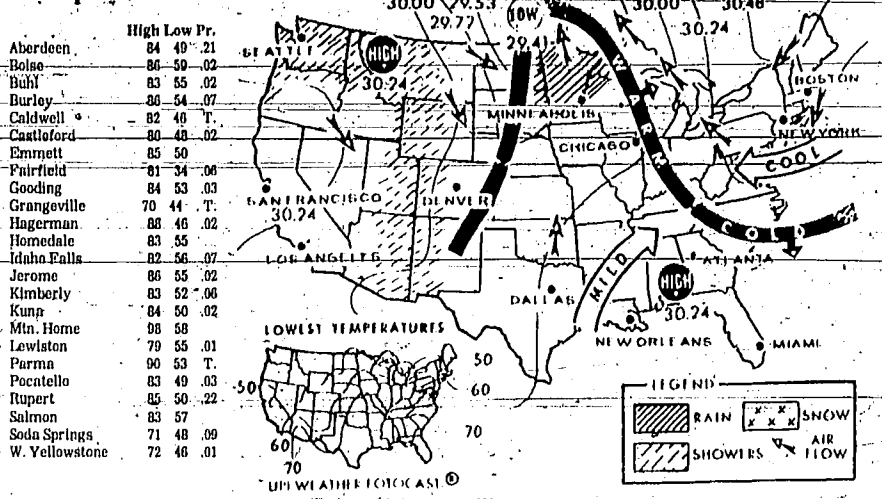

Electronics and computers generally were higher. Chemicals and oils were mixed. Steels, motors, rails and aircrafts were mixed.

Idaho Valley Weather Report

Cold front moves through valley

Twin Falls, northside, Burley, Rupert area: Much cooler through Wednesday with a chance of afternoon or evening showers and locally gusty winds. Lowest tonight 35 to 45. Highs Wednesday 52 to 62.

Synopsis: A cold front moved through southwestern Idaho this morning and will be moving out of southeastern Idaho this afternoon. Showers and thunderstorms are accompanying the frontal passage and strong gusty winds preceded and followed the front.

Cooler air behind this system will be lowering temperatures over southern Idaho 10 to 20 degrees.

High temperatures yesterday were in the 80s in most valleys with some of the warmer stations reaching the near 90 mark.

Overnight lows were generally in the 40s and 50s. These night time temperatures will be cooling to the 30s and 40s tonight with temperatures tomorrow in the 60s and low 70s.

Precipitation was quite general throughout southern Idaho in the past 24 hours with 22 at Rupert being the greatest reported.

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q—In January, 1970, I bought 154 shares of International Industries at 35 1/2 per share. Shortly before that I had purchased 55 shares of Ite at 32 1/4. The $7,300 spent was our life savings and was our first experience with stocks. How can we salvage something from these stocks?—K.A.

A—International Industries (NYSE), an effort to resolve its financial problems, has sold several operations, restructured its debt and is in the process of merging with the Master Hosts subsidiary. Deficits have been reported in each of the last seven quarters.

Additional nonrecurring expenses are possible as a result of recent divestitures. Revenues from continuing operations could reach $85 million for the year ended August, up from $60 million in 1970.

Q—At present I hold 10M Puget Sound Power & Light 9 1/2 of 2000, 5M South Central Bell Telephone 9 1/2 of 2007 and 5M U.S. Leasing 9 1/2 of 1974. I have $33,000 in the bank at 6 per cent and wonder if I should use some of this to purchase more bonds so that I will have monthly income?—E.L.

A—Three more bond issues would complete your monthly income payment plan and leave you with $10,000 in savings still drawing 6 per cent. The three suggested debt securities are Aluminum Co. of Canada 9 1/2 of 1995, Central Telephone 9 1/2 of 1995 and Marathon Oil 8 1/2 of 2000.

Ratings are BBB or better, and the average current return is 8.3 per cent. Approximately $320 in interest income for each of the six remaining months may be achieved by purchasing seven of each of the above-named debt issues.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Spear & Staff reports the stock market is in the early stages of the "Nixon-Victory Market." Spear & Staff says it is now a "probability" that President Nixon will be re-elected, and the stock market will advance to new all-time highs. Spear & Staff says the market will not shoot upward, but will see a broad upsurge. The long road ahead to keep inflation down will help keep the market from going straight up, the firm concludes.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 20, 1972

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early part of the day is unusually good for uniting conditions from the past in an intelligent alignment with what you want in the future. The evening finds a confused situation developing that requires much care and caution.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A fine day to get in touch with as many fine friends as possible and do those things that will improve the friendship. You can reach desires not possible before now.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) If you seek ideas from higher-ups in the morning you can push ahead more quickly toward success. You are now able to handle those civic affairs. Evenings fine for other tasks.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You have so many ideas in your mind that it is important you employ only those that are best for you in the future. Make plans for a trip which is important to your advancement.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Make those collections now that will enable you to pay bills that are pressing and thereby improve your credit. A display of your fine talent will impress others now.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Engage in conversations with associates so that you can clear up any differences and make better arrangements for the future. Avoid one who bickers. Relax at home tonight.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Plan how to do all that work ahead efficiently and gain the respect of co-workers. Use your energies wisely. Some time spent at exercise will improve your health. Be wise.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Plan time to repay a social debt today which could bring fine benefits in the future. Your mate wants proof of your affection, so be sure to give it and add to happiness.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Add those comforts to home that will increase its beauty and give happiness and satisfaction. Work on a plan to have more security in the future. Success is up to you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You can now make excellent new contacts while enjoying old ones. State your aims to right people who can now help you attain them. Don't neglect correspondence.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have to find a more modern way of adding to present income, otherwise you will not get good results. Contact an expert in business for advice and follow it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Handling personal affairs is best today, although you can accomplish almost anything you set your heart on today. Talking with persons you respect can bring about advancement.

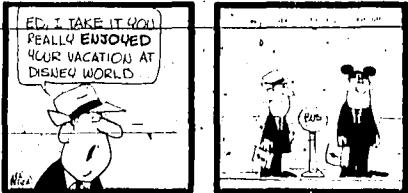

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Talking with a good friend and stating your fondest desires brings fine cooperation so that you can attain them easily. The social is particularly good this evening.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY—he or she will be one of those delightful individuals who likes people. Be sure to have playmates in as much as possible, but be sure they are the right kind of people, otherwise your progeny could get into the wrong company and possibly ruin a fine future. Almost any field is good here, especially that of selling, personnel work, the ministry and teaching.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

What's What

That a now-famous Bill Bickett originated the rodeo contest called bulldogging has been proclaimed. But exactly how he did so, less widely reported. A ram-bouncing steer balked at the corral gate. This upset Bickett. He jumped off his horse, glommed onto the beast's horns, and bit down on its lower lip with his teeth. That steer folded up, sir.

And promoters decided Bickett's spontaneous performance might be box office. It was. Mark 1010 as the date bulldogging came to be regular rodeo routine.

IT'S also said a red-haired woman with brown eyes definitely should be kissed goodnight on the first date. And this kiss should be of the 30-second variety. The psychology experts who so aver claim such a woman considers it a reflection on her sex appeal if not kissed thusly. And our Love and War mantras you possibly know has rattended it's unkind to cast doubt on said appeal.

Nobody who owns a camper ought to forget there was a time when only one man in the world named Alexander the Great maintained such a portable bedroom. Enlisted men carried it.

MEDICAL men are still trying to figure out why the incidence of miscarriage appears to be somewhat higher in pregnancies which begin in the spring.

WISH this matter of the Chihuahua could be settled. Contrary to the claims of numerous subscribers some canine experts still insist it's the only dog that can be described as native to North America.

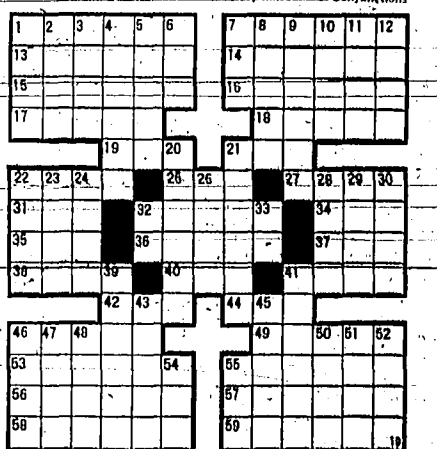

GREATEST trumpet player of the day is said to be Doc Severinsen. Maybe, so, don't know. Most popular trumpet player years back, you'll recall, was Harry James. He had the ability, possibly still has it, to tug tones up and down the scale in a most melodious manner. And some credited this notable knack to the little known fact that his mother, a circus performer, swung on a trapdoor until 30 days before little Harry was born.

Complete plans

Area workshop slated

TWIN FALLS — All Twin Falls County PTA units, school superintendents, principals and elected officials are invited to attend a workshop Sept. 26 in Twin Falls.

Committee chairmen and others in PTA groups in Twin Falls, Buhl, Castleford, Filer, Hansen, Kimberly and Murtaugh are scheduled to attend the program at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 26 in the Vera C. O'Leary Junior High School Library.

Guest speaker will be Leo Childs, president of District 4, Idaho Congress of Parents and Teachers, and executive director of the Idaho Ranch for Youth. Ray Roper, vice president and acting president of the council, will be master of ceremonies.

Mrs. Pierce Roan, second vice president of the state PTA, will present awards to council members and will also present an invitation to the state convention in Lewiston Oct. 13 and 14.

Following the award presentation, workshop sessions will be held with separate group sessions for presidents, vice presidents, program chairmen, superintendents and principals, all under the direction of Mrs. Roan.

Sessions for secretaries and treasurers, budgeting and financing officers will be directed by Mrs. Edwin (Ted) Crockett, Hansen, district vice president for Twin Falls County. Room representatives (mothers) and hospitality chairmen will meet under the direction of Mrs. Glen J. Griffin, secretary of the Twin Falls Council.

Mrs. Dennis Keaton, past president of the Buhl PTA, will conduct the workshop session on public relations and procedure books. Membership, and magazine chairmen will meet under the direction of Roper. Refreshments will be served.

More smokes made

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Both consumption and production of cigarettes is increasing in the United States, the government reported Monday.

Cigarette output this year is expected to exceed the 593 billion produced in fiscal 1972, the Agriculture Department said. At the same time, it said persons over 18 will smoke slightly more cigarettes than last year's 202 packs per capita.

The report said tobacco crops this year would be about the same size as a year ago — some 1.73 billion pounds.
